

McGovern Gives 7-Point Peace Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, outlining the steps he as president would take to end the Vietnam war, says the United States can have peace "any day that we put the saving of lives ahead of the saving of face."

The Democratic presidential nominee presented his seven-point plan in a nationally televised speech Tuesday night. He said he would suspend U.S. bombing, military action and aid to Vietnam on inauguration day, and dispatch his vice president to Hanoi.

Saying President Nixon's

"decisive military action" has failed to bring peace to Indochina, McGovern declared that his proposal is "a program that will work" and is similar to the method used by France in withdrawing from Indochina in 1954.

The South Dakota senator said there are two basic differences between his plan and Nixon's: the administration's effort to maintain the government of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, and the view that military action can successfully end the conflict.

McGovern said Nixon "has had his chance" and failed to produce peace, noting that "40 per cent of all the Americans lost in Vietnam have died in the last four years, died under the present administration."

"Now the answer to failure is not more of the same," he said. "And yet, I fear continued war is what the Nixon administration has in store if they stay in power."

Later in the evening, McGovern spoke to a crowd of aides said numbered 10,000 persons at a $15-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

He declared the choice in the Nov. 7 election is "between endless war in Indochina or the very distinct possibility—and I believe the absolute necessity—that we could have peace in Vietnam, and we could have it any day that we put the saving of lives ahead of the saving of face."

McGovern's Vietnam speech was considered by aides to be one of the most crucial of his entire campaign. It was taped Sunday and carried on the CBS network and other stations at an over-all cost of $170,000, including production costs and time, a McGovern spokesman said.

It followed closely the general proposals the candidate had made on Vietnam in the past, but attempted to fill in the gaps to counter a widespread impression reflected in some surveys that his withdrawal program would not work.

These are McGovern's seven points:

—An immediate order upon taking the presidential oath for U.S. forces to stop all bombing, military action and shipment of supplies, and start an orderly withdrawal under a 80-day time schedule.

—Directions for U.S. negotiators in Paris to tell the North Vietnamese that the United States expects them to meet this initiative with the return of all U.S. war prisoners and an accounting of those missing in action, also within 90 days.

"We would further notify all parties that the United States would no longer interfere in the internal politics of Vietnam and that we will allow the Vietnamese people to work out their own settlement."

—Dispatch of the vice president to Hanoi to supervise arrangements for return of prisoners and an accounting of those missing.

—Once all U.S. prisoners were returned and missing men accounted for, U.S. bases in Thailand would be closed and ships off the Indochinese coast would be moved.

—A joint effort with other countries to repair "the wreckage left by this war."

—An expanded aid program for U.S. veterans of the Vietnam war including a guarantee of "either a good job or a full funded higher education."

—Amnesty for young men who chose jail or exile to avoid fighting in the war, combined with a voluntary program of public service for those who wanted to demonstrate their objections were not to serving the nation but to participating in the Vietnam war.

At the same time, McGovern added, "We must oppose any so-called war-crimes trials to fix the blame for the past on any citizen or any group of citizens."

"This is not the time for re-cremations," he said. "It is a time for reconciliation."

Two Candidates ... Major Differences

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern's Vietnam plan clashes sharply with President Nixon's on big issues dividing the negotiators at Paris—terms for a cease-fire, a U.S. withdrawal and Saigon's political future.

The Democratic presidential nominee's blueprint, as set forth Tuesday night, appears much closer to conditions laid down by North Vietnamese-Viet Cong envoys, but there are differences.

after an Indochina-wide cease-fire and release of U.S. prisoners.

The Vietnamese communists call for an end to "the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam, the bombing, mining and blockade of (North) Vietnam," a stop to "all U.S. military activities in South Vietnam" and a "rapid and complete withdrawal of all U.S. troops, advisers ..."

George McGovern's plan to end U.S. involvement in Vietnam has a loophole, News analysis on page 3.

McGovern indicated he would halt U.S. arms aid to the regime of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. "Gen. Thieu is not worth one more American dollar," he said.

Nixon's terms allow for a curb on U.S. military assistance to South Vietnam, provided one is imposed on the outside aid Hanoi receives from Moscow and Peking.

The Vietnamese communists want to "completely cease the Vietnamization policy," under which the Nixon administration has been aiding Saigon's armed forces.

McGovern would not require a general cease-fire. A statement accompanying his speech said a limited, temporary cease-fire is implied in his plan because both sides at Paris have indicated the communist forces would not attack American troops carrying out an announced complete pullout.

For Nixon, an internationally supervised Indochina-wide cease-fire is a major condition both for military settlement and for a broader agreement including a political solution for South Vietnam. It is a prerequisite for a complete U.S. military withdrawal and elections in South Vietnam.

The Vietnamese communists favor a general cease-fire in South Vietnam when their proposed new government in Saigon is formed.

SAIGON'S FUTURE
McGovern, denouncing what he calls the U.S. policy of propping up of a venal Thieu regime, says the United States should "no longer interfere in the internal politics of Vietnam." He says "we will allow the Vietnamese people to work out their own settlement ... including a coalition government" if they choose.

Nixon stresses his goal that "the political future of South Vietnam will be left for the South Vietnamese people to decide for themselves, free from outside interference." He offers a "free and democratic presidential election ... run by an independent body." Thieu would step down one month before the election, but could run to succeed himself.

Hanoi demands Thieu's resignation, with his regime to be succeeded by a three-segment coalition government which would organize the new elections. The three components would include the Viet Cong, Saigon administration officials and "representatives of other political forces in South Vietnam."

PRISONERS
McGovern would dispatch his running mate, Sargent Shriver, to Hanoi "to speed the arrangements for the return of our prisoners." He would "expect" the enemy to free all U.S. captives in line with the July 1, 1971, Viet Cong offer to release prisoners upon total withdrawal of U.S. and other foreign forces from South Vietnam. He would keep U.S. forces in Thailand and off Vietnam's shores until the prisoners are returned.

Nixon would not stop U.S. acts of force throughout Indochina nor would he withdraw U.S. forces completely from South Vietnam until there is a cease-fire and the prisoners are freed. "Americans in significant numbers will remain in South Vietnam."

The Vietnamese communists would release prisoners at the same time as U.S. forces are carrying out a complete withdrawal. Their spokesmen, however, from time to time have linked the military issue with their terms for a political settlement.

Kissinger, North Vietnamese Still Talking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger's talks with the North Vietnamese entered their fourth day in Paris today. The surprise extension of negotiations raised diplomatic eyebrows but brought no official word of progress.

President Nixon's assistant for national-security affairs had been scheduled to return to the White House Tuesday night after an unprecedented third day of talks with communist negotiators Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy.

Instead, Kissinger cabled

Nixon that he and the communists had agreed to a fourth day of talks and that he would be returning tonight.

The extension was announced by the White House less than two hours before Nixon's election opponent, Democratic Sen. George McGovern, outlined on national television his plan to end the Vietnam War.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied that the private but highly publicized Paris negotiations were connected in any way to the election campaign. "None whatsoever," he told newsmen who asked about the timing.

Ziegler and other officials continued to refuse to give details—or even hints—of the substance of Kissinger's talks.

But Kissinger's extended stay in Paris—his 19th negotiating trip to the French capital in a tripartite regime made up of Thieu conferred again Tuesday with U.S. ambassador Ellsworth Bunker as a Saigon newspaper with links to the United States, which publicly rejected the plan, has in the past suggested it would never agree to basic U.S. and South Vietnamese settlement that would result in imposition of a communist government in South Vietnam.

Harsh Criticism on McGovern Proposals

By United Press International
President Nixon's allies brand Sen. George S. McGovern's plan to end the war a "sell-out," "unconditional surrender," and a scheme that would bring Americans out of Vietnam "with our tails between our legs."

The harsh criticism came in response to the Democratic presidential candidate's television address Tuesday night in which he said he would end the American involvement in the war within 90 days after taking office, describing the issue as a choice between "saving face or saving lives." McGovern also said he would send his vice president, Sargent Shriver, to Hanoi to speed the return of prisoners of war.

Labor leaders who support McGovern proposals, State Dept. officials, and the House of Representatives have been quick to praise the plan.

—Thomas W. (Teddy) Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association: "The first national campaign speech any candidate has ever delivered on his knees ... Since he (McGovern) has obviously lost this election, he seems to have decided to try

Meany's executive council would be turning the assigned role over to a "well-meaning but vacillating and impractical man whose policies foreshadow failure."

French Legation Hit in Hanoi

SAIGON (UPI)—French diplomatic reports said U.S. planes bombed the French legation building in Hanoi today, but the U.S. Command said tonight that North Vietnamese SAM2 antiaircraft missiles may have crashed back to earth after missing U.S. Navy planes and demolished the mission.

Earlier, the command said only that "we did have air strikes over North Vietnam today."

In a statement, the command said, "Our initial operations reports indicate that U.S. Navy aircraft struck Wednesday Saigon truck North Vietnamese military targets, including major railroad yards and transshipment points across the Red River north of the area of Hanoi in which the French delegation building is located.

"A number of enemy surface to air missiles (SAM) were fired at the U.S. aircraft. No U.S. aircraft were lost and the surface to air missiles could have impacted on the ground after missing the aircraft," the statement said.

A command spokesman said he was not sure whether any of the American war planes actually flew over the capital itself en route to or from their targets.

Earlier, the command had declined to either confirm or deny that it was possible that American war planes bombed the French and Algerian missions in Hanoi.

Hanoi Radio said the French delegate, Pierre Susini, was seriously wounded, along with the Albanian delegate.

Hanoi Radio said the Albanian diplomat, Treman Ramaj, was visiting the French mission when it was demolished. Hanoi Radio also said four Vietnamese employees of the mission and a French woman official were killed and another Vietnamese employee seriously wounded.

It said the roof was blown off the nearby Algerian embassy.

The command usually waits a day after raids occur before reporting them. It said moon weather on Tuesday limited U.S. strikes against the North to 230, the first time in six days they dropped below the 300 mark. However, B52s were identified as Xon Suoi, Phu Chanh and An Hoa—all 15 to 18 miles from the capital.

An estimated 200 Viet Cong still hold the village of Xon Luoi, 22 miles north of Saigon, according to field reports. At least two .51 caliber guns were reported in the village. Most of its residents have fled.

Navy fighter-bomber pilots reported tearing up 2,000 feet of runway at the Bai Thuong air base, just north of the port of Thanh Hoa, 210 miles above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). Other U.S. jets wrecked these buildings in raids on the Vinh Army base one mile from the city, the Navy said.

Feraca Named Village Police Chief by Paltz Trustees

By WADE BURKHART
NEW PALTZ
Kingston City Detective Joseph Feraca was named chief of the Village of New Paltz Police Department at a special meeting of the New Paltz Village Board of Trustees Tuesday night.

The search for a new chief had narrowed in recent weeks to two candidates, Feraca and John Callahan. Callahan is a former Wawarick police chief.

Trustee John Logan, chairman of the village's police committee and head of the search committee for a new chief, said the board was "very pleased" to name Feraca.

"We're looking for good service from him," Logan said. About 15 people applied for the job as successor to retired chief James Walrath. The search for Walrath's replacement has been a long one: it began when Walrath notified the village of his impending retirement in March. The former chief set the date of June 1 for his step down, but he agreed to stay on while the search was going on, and he finally stepped down Aug. 31.

Logan cited a long list of good points that led to Feraca's being named chief.

"He's personable, and he gets along well with people. We were impressed with his industry, his straight forward manner, and his obvious integrity. Everybody we talked to about him spoke of his honesty. He's a good investigator, and a very thorough policeman. He came very highly recommended," said Logan of Feraca.

JOSEPH FERACA

According to Logan, Feraca's relative youth — he is 30 — was another point in his favor, and he said Feraca had an "excellent educational background."

Feraca, who is also a member of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated Board of Education, will take over as chief as soon as he can be released from his duties with the Kingston Police Department.

Logan said he had spoken with Kingston Police Chief Julius Glassman on the matter, and Logan felt it would be "several weeks" before Feraca would be free to assume his duties in New Paltz.

In another move Tuesday night, which Logan said the village board felt was just as important as naming a chief,

Richard Thompson was appointed sergeant with the village police department.

Thompson has been serving as officer in charge of the village police as a patrolman since Walrath's departure. He will continue to run the department until Feraca takes over.

When Feraca does take command, Thompson's duties will be to assist him in administrative and supervisory duties as well as carry on his regular patrol duty.

Thompson's appointment is effective immediately.

Hinchey Levels Sewage Charge

By HUGH REYNOLDS
KINGSTON
Maurice D. Hinchey Jr., Democratic-Liberal candidate for Assembly in the 101st District, continued his "conflict of interest" attacks on the Republican-Conservative opponent (Assemblyman) H. Clark Bell, today offering further evidence of an alleged conflict between Bell's role as an Assemblyman and his partnership in a Kingston-based law firm.

Hinchey, at a press conference today at Democratic Headquarters on Broadway, charged Bell with "raping Ulster County," specifically in regards to a "severe sewage problem" in a housing development off Deerfield Road in Boiceville, near Onteora High School.

Deerfield Road, Hinchey said, is the site of a 24-home housing development where "at least 20 of the 24 homes have a severe sewage disposal problem caused by improperly installed and inadequate septic tanks and leaching fields."

"Throughout these proceedings, Mr. Bell's law firm, at once, represented both the bank and the builder, and in some cases represented the buyer as well," Hinchey said.

Hinchey said that he has been informed by residents of the development that "for many months these improper sewage systems have been leaking into open cesspools, causing a severe potential health hazard in the area and the 1,500 students of the Onteora School which is situated just 500 feet downhill from the leaking sewage."

Hinchey also contended that the "leaking sewage" is "causing pollution of the Esopus Creek and ultimately the Ashokan Reservoir." He said residents of the development have been seeking help for the past six months but without success.

"The people of Deerfield Road have received no help from either the Ulster County Health Department or their elected representative assemblyman," Hinchey said. "I charge both the Ulster County Health Department and Mr. Bell with negligence. I charge Mr. Bell with conflict of interest between his potential health hazard in the law firm and the people he is supposed to represent," Hinchey concluded.

Bell Cites Environmental Act

NAPANOCH
Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock), in a speech before the Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association Tuesday night, urged passage of the Environmental Quality Bond Act of 1972.

At the meeting, Bell analyzed the bond issue in depth and gave special attention to its impact on Ulster County.

"In addition to the benefits to be derived from the water pollution control, air pollution control and solid waste control programs," said Bell, "all of which are based on a statewide per capita formula, Ulster County will derive extra benefits because of its concentration of state owned land, such as the Minnewaska State Park, the Kenneth L. Wilson State Park, the Belleayre Recreation Center and the large Catskill Park protected under Article 14, Section 3 of the state constitution."

Bell noted that $175 million of the $2.1 billion bond issue is earmarked for land preservation and recreation purposes. "Some $15 million of this is scheduled for use on our Catskill Park," said Bell. "Another $23 million is set for use to preserve wetlands, and the Basherkill in the Wurtsboro-Port Jervis area is high on the priority list in this category."

Bell also told the sportsmen that "Another $8 million is scheduled to be used to improve public access to state lands for improved hunting, fishing, camping, hiking, snowmobiling, equestrian and other outdoor sports opportunities, and about $3 million will be used to acquire rights for some 750 miles of fishing streams."

"If you believe our environment should have a high social priority Nov. 7 is the day to record that belief for the betterment of our environment," Bell added.

The Woodstock Assemblyman was recently accorded a 90 per cent rating from the New York Environmental Planning Lobby in its Voters Guide. The environmentalists selected ten key votes and Bell was recorded "pro-environment" on nine of the 10. Bell told the gathering Tuesday night that he would have received a 100 per cent rating, but that he missed the 10th vote because "he left the capital to return to Woodstock for the birth of his daughter."

Dr. Arnold Case... No Date Yet

SAUGERTIES
The future of Dr. Dexter O. Arnold as Superintendent of the Saugerties Central School District still rests in the hands of the New York State Education Department.

But state officials have given no indication when they will attempt to resolve the three-month dispute between the Board of Education and Dr. Arnold.

At Tuesday's regular school board meeting, it was noted that the State Education Department still has not set a date for a hearing on Dr. Arnold's dismissal by the school board. Board President Robert Francello noted that attorneys for the school district will request a status report on the case this week.

It was also revealed that the school board intends to hold a press conference sometime prior to the hearing to reveal the specific charges it has prepared against the Superintendent.

Dr. Arnold, meanwhile, continues as Superintendent under a State Education Department order. And, he was the object of one piece of legislation at Tuesday's board meeting.

Board member John Needham proposed that Dr. Arnold's office be relocated from the high school to the east conference room of the Hill Street Administration Center. The move was approved unanimously.

Dr. Arnold was moved out of the Administration Building in September. A motion at the Sept. 11 board meeting that he be moved back to Hill Street building was denied.

Routine matters occupied much of the remainder of Tuesday's session.

A Superintendent's Conference Day was set for Nov. 17. The elementary schools in the district will be closed that day.

The school board approved an early release program for selected students at the high school. Students with late study halls will be allowed to leave school early if they have jobs to go to that day.

Board member John O'Rourke reported that budget preparations this year will be simplified by the two-year contract signed recently with the Saugerties Teachers Association. He estimated that $210,000 in the 1973-74 budget will be earmarked for teachers' salaries and benefits.

In other matters, assessments refunds totaling $348.59 were awarded; bids totaling $1,056.65 for basketball and wrestling supplies were approved; and two teachers, six special service personnel and four substitute teachers were hired.

Investigating Holdup

NEW PALTZ
Two men escaped early this morning after holding up a couple at knife point at the Pilgrimage Restaurant and Bar on Route 32 north.

New Paltz town police reported that the man and woman, whom they refused to identify, left the restaurant about 3 a.m. and were accosted by two black males. The suspects allegedly took $250 in cash and a diamond ring from the couple and fled in a compact foreign car.

Patrolmen D. J. Zappone, E. F. Melendez, and A. W. Orlando of the New Paltz Town of Police are investigating.

Could Leave Him in Nixon Position

Catch to McGovern Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern's plan to end U.S. involvement in Vietnam has a catch that could leave him in the same position now held by President Nixon: bombing the North until prisoners are released.

Although the Democratic presidential nominee said Tuesday that he would order an immediate end to bombing and all acts of force in Indochina upon taking office, he apparently left himself a loophole.

"After all our prisoners have been returned, and we have received a satisfactory accounting of any missing men,"

McGovern told a national television audience, "I would order the secretary of Defense and the joint chiefs to close our bases in Thailand . . . headquarters for much of the U.S. bombing power, and to reassign elsewhere any ships still stationed in the waters adjoining Indochina."

That would indicate McGovern would keep a residual force available for use if the prisoners were not released.

And, while he gave no indication he would expect any trouble from North Vietnam over the POWs, McGovern inserted a condition on a total disavowal of the use of force in Indochina. After outlining his obligation under their own seven-point proposal of 1971—to return all prisoners of war and to account for all missing in action. We will expect that process to be completed within 90 days . . .

McGovern did not address directly the possibility that the prisoners would not be released by his deadline, and that is where the catch, the chance of renewed bombing or naval actions, could come in.

Hanoi's refusal to release the prisoners could leave McGovern in the position President Nixon says has led in part to the bombing of the North:

AP Analysis

"—Notify the representatives of the other side that we have taken these steps to end the hostilities, and that we now expect that they will accept their obligation under their own seven-point proposal of 1971—to return all prisoners of war and to account for all missing in action. We will expect that process to be completed within 90 days . . .

McGovern did not address directly the possibility that the prisoners would not be released by his deadline, and that is where the catch, the chance of renewed bombing or naval actions, could come in.

Hanoi's refusal to release the prisoners could leave McGovern in the position President Nixon says has led in part to the bombing of the North:

Hanoi's refusal to release the prisoners.

And, by having removed all U.S. ground forces and withdrawing entirely from the negotiations on South Vietnam's political future, McGovern's plan does not indicate any alternate leverage for freeing the POWs.

McGovern has indicated in the past that he takes Hanoi on faith in his expectation that the prisoners would be released. But his faith does not now appear so unshakable that he would be willing to withdraw all American military might from easy striking distance of North Vietnam until Hanoi has met his conditions.

Spiro . . . 'An Intelligent Campaign'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's plush 727 had just whooshed down when an aide chuckled to those aboard, "How lucky you are."

"Just think," he said, "Sarge Shriver is probably walking through North Passaic, N.J., right now."

"Yeah," came another voice down the aisle of the jet. "And on his way to East Passaic."

True, that three-day getaway for golf and tennis beneath a desert sun tended to exaggerate the point. But even the busiest election forays of Spiro Agnew—despite his role as Richard Nixon's No. 1 campaigner—are geared to a minimum of mess, fuss, and rush.

While Democratic nominees George McGovern and Sargent Shriver have spirited themselves to several cities or states within a day, often starting at sunup and going past midnight, the vice president rarely arises without a solid night's sleep.

Though he has hit 25 states since Nixon conferred his blessing for another term, Agnew's schedule generally calls for no more than two or three events a day, usually in-and-out affairs timed for morning and evening news-media deadlines.

He'll usually walk the fence at a good airport turnout, but he refrains from plunging into sweat-soaked crowds. And never does he loosen his tie or unbutton his jacket.

Agnew calls it "an intelligent campaign" on his part, particularly under "the campaign situation that exists." And that situation is, simply, the GOP's commanding lead in the polls. "Frenzied activity," he says, "is one of the traditional political devices to use at a time of crisis."

The Agnew of 1972 seems much more at ease, even with his old adversaries among the media. He has held as many as four news conferences in three days, and on most flights he saunters back to the press section of the plane for chitchats with reporters. For one such occasion, he broke out a jar of fresh, homemade cookies.

Agnew explains: "I think we live in a media-oriented nation, and we might as well utilize that very effective means of communication."

Moreover, Agnew's speech-making has taken on some almost unrecognizable qualities. In the past two weeks his remarks have come "to keep from boring myself," to be more and more off-the-cuff, compared with his strict adherence to texts in earlier days. And the speeches prepared by his own staff, rather than the Nixon writers who followed him in 1970, are devoid of the alliterations ("nattering nabobs of negativism") and invented words ("Radicalib") which came to be Agnew trademarks.

For the most part, his has been a litany not on personalities but the administration's record, although he has built quite a store of one-liners about McGovern, Shriver and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for use before particularly partisan crowds.

PHNOM PENH (UPD)—Cambodian police agents foiled a Communist terror plot Tuesday in a slapstick comedy complete with bungling criminals, a screaming wife and a comic chase scene.

The movie-like escapade, described at an official government news conference today, began when four men knocked on the door of Kuon Ngon Chhung, who lives across the road from the national police station in a third floor walkup.

Chung asked through the door what the early-morning callers wanted. A voice said, "I am bringing you eight apples sent to you by your relatives."

When he opened the door, however, Chhung found four men. One of them stuck a gun in his stomach and pushed him up, turned around and after a little bumping off each other and the stairwell walls, gave Chhung told the men they were welcome to anything they found in his home. The men said they were not thieves, but wanted "to use the house for a couple of days."

At this announcement, Chhung's wife began screaming, attracting the attention of police agents standing in front of headquarters across the street.

The would-be terrorists panicked and began running. They ran headlong into the agent and two other policemen, but thrust past them into the street.

Then police picked themselves up, turned around and after a little bumping off each other and the stairwell walls, gave Chhung told the men they were welcome to anything they found in his home. The men said they were not thieves, but wanted "to use the house for a couple of days."

Nixon Gets Spending Limit Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to give President Nixon authority to hold back appropriations at his discretion and confine government spending through June 30 to $250 billion.

Nixon had pressed hard for the authority, saying it would ensure that no tax increase will be needed next year. But the bill faces possible trouble in the Senate.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee, who set a tentative hearing on the measure this afternoon, opposes the broad authority it would give the President, as does Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

It was that question of authority over government spending which dominated the House debate and pitted some of its most prominent Democrats against each other.

House approval by a 221-163 vote Tuesday was a triumph for the President, who issued a statement saying, "The nation's taxpayers are the real winners in this action to provide insurance against any need for a tax increase."

The measure contains two sections. The disputed one authorizes the President to hold government spending for the current fiscal year to a maximum of $250 billion and gives him the power, regardless of any other laws, to choose where reductions will be made.

The cuts would range from $6 billion to $10 billion by present estimates.

The other section raises the present $450-billion debt ceiling to $465 billion through June 30. If Congress does not act on the debt ceiling, it drops automatically Oct. 31 to $400 billion, less than the current debt.

There must be some boost in the debt ceiling if Congress is to keep paying its bills after Oct. 31.

The House debate on the spending-ceiling provision found such Democratic leaders as Speaker Carl Albert and Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon opposing Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills.

Albert and other Democratic leaders favored a substitute offered by Mahon, D-Tex. It would have requested the President to submit recommendations for budget cuts, but would have left the ultimate decision to Congress.

The substitute lost, 215 to 167, and the House went on to final passage, with 79 Democrats and 142 Republicans voting yes, and 143 Democrats and 20 Republicans voting no.

Mills argued that inflationary pressures are increasing and Congress must begin to regain control over spending, even with a temporary grant of power to the chief executive.

He said the public demands such action and if the substitute were adopted, "kiss Democratic control of Congress goodbye."

Opponents insisted that Nixon could use the power to slash favorite Democratic social programs.

BEATTY

Q: Has anyone noticed that Princess Lee Radziwill is spending more and more time in the U.S. while her husband seems to stay home in London? — L.L., El Paso, Texas.

A: We've noticed. And when asked, the Princess explains that she has a number of projects going here and can't possibly leave them half-finished. Asked whether Prince Stanislas was coming to visit, Lee answered, "I don't think that's anyone's affair but my own."

Q: The truth now. Do movie producers still have those infamous casting couches? — H.L., Smithtown, N.Y.

A: Ah yes, many still do. In fact, Peter Ustinov wouldn't tell us the man's name but says he knows one producer who is so casting couch-minded they call him "Divan the Terrible."

Q: What's the latest with Diahann Carroll and David Frost. Are they or aren't they? — J.S., L.A., Calif.

A: We're afraid they aren't at the moment. When she was asked in Paris if she is on or off with the TV star, Diahann said, "Maybe yes, maybe no, we'll see!" But at the time she was traveling around with her latest love, a Las Vegas dress-shop owner named Fred.

Q: Can you identify the person women's libber Germaine Greer calls "The Star" in her article about the Democratic Convention, in the October Harper's magazine? — J.E., Bronx, N.Y.

A: Yes, Ms. Greer says "The Star" pursued her but she turned away his advances fearing he was only wooing her to the cause of George McGovern. She calls the Star's charm "a work of kinetic art" and admits he made her palms sweat. It's Warren Beatty — who makes pursuing and charming women a highly developed art.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED? How do young Edith

Beale and her mother Older Edith Beale feel now that Jackie Onassis has paid to have their East Hampton house renovated so the health department wouldn't evict her Bouvier relatives? The two Ediths are still wary. They say their "molestation" was "faked" and they will "never rest easy again." Young Edith says the health department raids would have been turned aside had she not "lacked a dog, a gun and a man." Older Edith claims the germicides sprayed have damaged her vocal cords. "I used to sing two hours a day, now I can't sing as I did."

Q: The Mafia seems to have become so commercially acceptable through books and movies, what can we expect next? — J.D., Ft. Worth, Tex.

A: Probably a new rage of crime fiction, and film based on the "Corsican Union." As this syndicate, long over-shadowed by the Cosa Nostra or Mafia, emerges from the shadows, prominent Corsicans are reacting just as many names.

Italian did — in tones of outrage at being lumped together as criminals and drug traffickers. One French politician recently termed the "Corsican Union" a pure figment of the imagination. Other Corsicans are talking of bringing lawsuits against those who trifle with their good names.

Dock Strike Is Settled in Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI)—The first day strike had ended followed by intensive marathon talks between the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and four Hawaii stevedoring companies. Within an hour of contract settlement for 300 allied workers, such as maintenance, service and security personnel, pickets were removed from the Honolulu waterfront.

Operations at Seatrain, Matson, Castle and Cooke, and McCabe, Hamilton and Renny were "all back to normal" by late Tuesday night.

The news was welcome for Hawaii, where residents went on shopping sprees to hoard rice and other staples. It was a trying two days, but most people weren't interested in details of the settlement—they were just happy it was over.

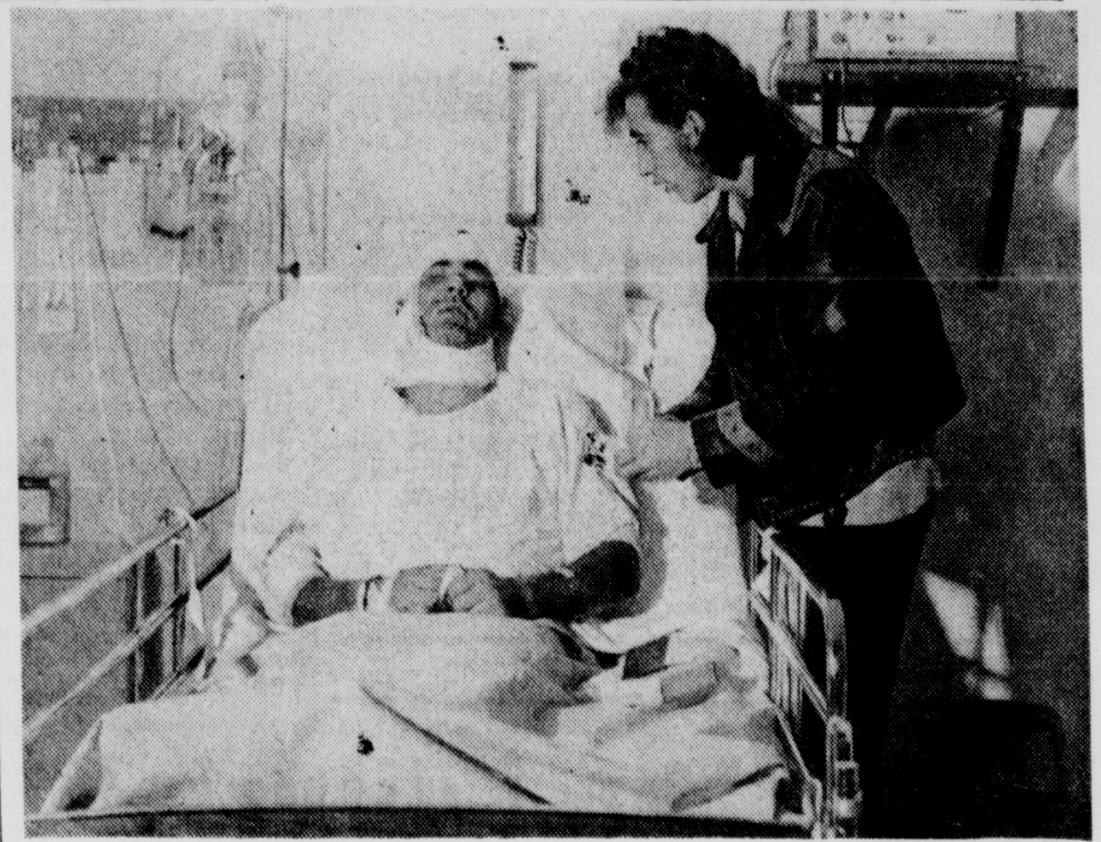

"I'm ecstatic," said a restaurant owner who predicted a sharp drop in revenue if the strike lasted a few days longer. The first company deciding to submit to the ILWU's demands for a wage boost and more fringe benefits was Seatrain Lines, which came to terms Sunday night.

Settlement with Castle and Cooke as well as Matson came Monday night and McCabe, Hamilton and Renny reached agreement with the ILWU Tuesday.

Ratification by the allied dockers will probably come Friday, a union source said, and no problems were expected.

Details of the pact were not made public, but were reportedly the same as Seatrain's which was regarded favorable to the union. It included a 92½-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to Dec. 25 1971 and a pension plan of $350 a month for workers at age 65 after 25 years of service.

Other benefits included a medical plan and a dental program.

ATTACKED BY LION — Abraham Levy, a 26-year-old visitor from Israel, rests in hospital after being bitten by lion when he lowered a car window while touring a drive-through wildlife preserve in West Milford, N. At right is David Nagar, driver of the car in which Levy was in. (UPI)

Supreme Court Rules Against Parochial Tuition Measure

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) For the past three years, demonstrators have gathered at the Capitol during the legislative session to promote the so-called Speno-Lerner proposal to give tuition grants to parents of parochial school children in New York State. Each year they left disappointed, charging that the measure, which always died in committee, never received a highest court affirmed the decision of a lower court that the law was unconstitutional because it aids religion.

The reasons supporting the law, said the Ohio court, do not alter "the plain fact that . . . as it permits reimbursement for tuition, it will transfer public funds to religiously oriented private schools."

The proposal in New York was advanced by the late State Sen. Edward Speno of Nassau County and Assemblyman Albert Lerner, now a Supreme Court justice. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and others opposed the measure because of the legal difficulties.

Programs that were enacted by the legislature have not fared any better, however. Federal courts have invalidated state programs that allowed state aid to nonpublic schools for:

—State-mandated expenses, such as the maintenance of enrollment and medical records.

—A portion of the salaries of nonpublic school teachers.

—Maintenance and repair of nonpublic school buildings.

The courts also struck down a state program to give income-tax credits to parents making less than $25,000 a year who sent their children to nonpublic schools.

In the law enacted last spring, only one part pertaining to nonpublic schools has survived court challenge. This program would grant income-tax credits for most parents of nonpublic school pupils.

A federal court in Manhattan has ordered a trial on this program. Because the program was not invalidated immediately, advocates of parochial school aid viewed the court action as encouraging.

Red Hook Water Dispute Rages

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK Tuesday night became involved in a dispute between residents of two housing divisions and the Annandale Water Works after a one-hour presentation by a resident spokesman.

Raymond Rhodes, long active in attempting to right alleged wrongs by the water company that serves Linden Acres, College Park, and Colonial Manor, documented his case and pleaded with the town board to become involved.

He said that the local officials were the "last resort," as state agencies had been insensitive to the customers and had received the "bureaucratic runaround" for years.

The concerns voiced were "water supply inadequacy, uncontrolled expansion of subdivisions, and the highest water rates in Dutchess and Putnam Counties."

Supervisor Warren Simmons, with the rest of the town board, referred the customers to the Town Planning Board to research the problems with an eye toward some type of control over expansion, and he said he would also provide the name of an attorney in the Office of Local Government to the customers.

Rhodes expressed concern that the addition of a new road connecting sections three and nine of the development (Manor Road, approved Tuesday night by the Town Board) would open up room for an eventual addition of 311 new homes to overtax the already inadequate water supply.

George Kittner, an attorney for Annandale Water Works, disputed Rhodes' statements and affirmed the good faith of the company.

In other business, the date of Nov. 8 was set for a public hearing on the proposed town budget for 1973. The hearing is slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Town officials will meet Oct. 18 to review the budget officer's figures and make any necessary changes or corrections.

The town also accepted two roads from Norman Thompson, to be named Fruit Bud Lane and Fruit Spur Drive.

William Balsam, who desires to build two houses on eight acres of his land zoned industrial on Fisk Street, was referred to the Planning Board for its evaluation.

Betty Van Parys, Planning Board secretary, asked the Town Board to resolve to allow the Planning Board to operate under new state legislation regarding non-conforming subdivisions. The matter was tabled for further study.

And new action may be upcoming in the continuing court case between Denter Gravel and the Town of Red Hook. Under a section of law allowing review of non-conforming gravel banks two years after the implementation of local zoning a new cease and desist order is possible from the Zoning Enforcement Officer in an attempt to stop work at this Red Hook site.

Seeks Divorce, Husband POW

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The wife of a Navy flier, America's longest-held prisoner of war in North Vietnam, is seeking a divorce despite alleged Navy attempts to stop her.

The pretty wife of Lt. Everett Alvarez Jr. filed a petition for dissolution of marriage in July 1970, but the proceedings were kept secret until this week when the pilot's sister told a San Francisco newspaper.

Tangee Alvarez, 32, had been married to her husband only eight months when he was shot down over the Gulf of Tonkin in August 1964. She told her attorneys she waited for his return until she felt she could wait no longer.

Her lawyer, Myron Towers, S. Leandro, Calif., said the Navy tried to stop the divorce on grounds the action would badly hurt his morale and might give the North Vietnamese a lever to pry out information.

Towers also said the Navy prohibited direct communications with the prisoner and the summons was finally served through the Department of Navy in Washington.

San Jose attorney Richard J. Wylie, representing Alvarez, said he doubts the validity of such a procedure.

"Our position is that Mrs. Alvarez couldn't obtain jurisdiction over him because of lack of personal service of the summons," he said.

But Towers said the divorce must be resolved in the next three to four weeks. Grounds for the action are "irreconcilable differences."

He said, "You have to pity both of them, it is really heart-breaking."

The attorney said the petition asks only for "dissolution" of the relationship and community property was not part of the action.

Camp Rav-Tov Additions Are Approved

TOWN OF ROCHESTER

An addition to the dining hall, and an additional dormitory, at Camp Rav-Tov in the Town of Rochester were approved Tuesday night following a public hearing held by the town's Planning Board.

There was no opposition expressed at the hearing.

It was noted that two floors of the existing dormitory at the Summer camp for children will be closed, and that the new dormitory will be used to provide the needed room. The enrollment at the camp is not expected to increase.

Weapon Against Drugs

Success or failure in the war on dangerous drugs must necessarily be relative.

Success, as defined by President Nixon, would be "the unconditional surrender of the merchants of death who traffic in heroin . . . the total banishment of drug abuse from the American life."

But it would be a mistake to term anything less as failure.

One life saved, one child protected from a lifetime of misery, one drug victim reclaimed would be enough to justify the most stringent measures to halt the flow of narcotics into the United States.

And Mr. Nixon's warning to those governments whose nations benefit from U. S. foreign aid is explicit. He is, he said, prepared to cut off all assistance to countries "whose leaders participate in or protect the activities of those who contribute to our drug problem."

The President's remarks to a conference of narcotics officials of more than 50 U. S. embassies throughout the world was a reaffirmation of American determination to stop drug traffic at its source.

But Mr. Nixon's acknowledgment of breakthroughs against the narcotics trade in such areas as Laos, Paraguay, France, Thailand and Turkey conceded, in effect, that the international effort is lagging in other nations.

And his authority to impose economic restrictions is not an option, but a mandate designed to protect our children's future and our country's future.

The President wisely refrained from any claims of reductions in drug abuse as a result of the federal drive thus far.

Anything short of total victory serves only as a reminder that American families are still shattered by the tragedies of young victims, that profits still accrue to drug peddlers and that the narcotics traffic remains more of a threat to our national stability than the possibility of enemy military action.

But it is encouraging to know that more federal drug treatment facilities have been created in a single year than during the previous half century—that new programs are capable of helping more than 100,000 addicts.

The statistics have another side, however, hinting at the extent of the problem—pointing out the urgency of a continuing response.

Any nation that would tolerate or share in financial gains at the expense of human suffering cannot qualify as friend or ally.

The President has a potent weapon to use in exerting pressure on those reluctant governments. He has no choice but to use it.

Soviet-Sino Thaw

The embittered border dispute that led to clashes between the Soviet Union and Red China in 1969 on the Amur and Ussuri rivers and on the border in Central Asia seems to have quieted down. An understanding has been reached on a limited objective.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin began the border talks with Premier Chou En-lai in a 3-hour stopover at the Peking airport after returning from Ho Chi Minh's funeral in 1969. The talks were repeatedly interrupted, but indications are that there is now a meeting of minds.

The talks concern ownership of 1,000 square miles of islands in the Amur and Ussuri rivers and of more than 10,000 square miles of uninhabited land in the Oamirs—"the roof of the world." The four Sino-Soviet treaties from 1689 to 1860 were bypassed. They are at the core of the dispute.

The settlement seems to have been speeded up by the political implications of Japanese Premier Kakuei Tanaka's visit to Peking, and the continued political tensions between Moscow and Washington over the Vietnam and Middle East issues.

Moscow's relations with Japan and the prospects of extensive cooperation made it advisable right now to avoid the appearance of an altercation with China. Also, it was to the Soviet's interest in the imminent European security conference not to appear to have China breathing down her neck. The Kosygin-Chou talks have been renewed with every prospect of agreement.

Furthermore, the trade agreement for 1973 between the two Communist giants negates all possible border conflict. It provides for the Soviet to supply large turbines and passenger planes and to train Chinese pilots and aircraft personnel in their use.

WASHINGTON—The Greeks aren't as enthusiastic as they're reported to be over the arrival of the U.S. Navy in Athens.

The Sixth Fleet has adopted the ancient Athenian seaport of Piraeus as a home port. For the past month, Navy families have been pouring into Athens with their baggage and belongings.

Most of them arrived clutching a "Welcome Aboard" pamphlet prepared for them by the Navy. This told them "cooling breezes off the Mediterranean in summer, days-on-end of glorious sunshine, the gale of a taverna by the sea, (and) the basic goodness of the Greek people"

"The new government," assured the pamphlet, "has worked cooperatively with American representatives in Greece, and the U.S. citizens stationed in the country are very courteously treated."

The Greek dictatorship, indeed, is delighted to tighten its ties with the United States by inviting the Sixth Fleet to make Athens its home away from home. But the Greek people have some unpublicized misgivings.

Both the U.S. embassy and Navy have picked up quiet rumblings from individual Greeks who are apprehensive over the impact the naval invasion will have on Greek life. There is an underlying hostility to the appearance of American sailors, particularly blacks, in their quiet neighborhoods.

Dirty Americans
"Some Athenians," claimed one written protest, "are already selling their seaside homes because they want to have nothing to do with Negro or white Americans who may live nearby."

"These Athenians judge from a few supposedly select military personnel already serving at the American base in Athens, who are foul, dirty, noisy and in short barbarous, who threaten to resort to violence when asked by neighbors to respect basic rules on quietness and cleanliness."

Other protesters have charged that black servicemen have brought violence to European communities where they're stationed, that the influx of thousands of Americans will run up rent and prices, and that the American warships will pollute the seashore.

A typical tenant complained that his landlady raised his rent from 1,500 to 2,500 drachmas ($50 to $75) with the explanation: "A young American lady is already waiting outside to take over if you leave."

The Navy selected Athens as a home base for the Sixth Fleet at the same time it was pretending to study other possible sites. Five months after the Navy had decided upon Athens, a cover-up story was issued saying Italian ports were still under construction. This was intended to calm criticism that the United States favored a dictatorship.

This little finesse was discovered by Reps. Ben Rosenthal, D-N.Y., and Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairmen of the House European and Mideast subcommittees, which have been investigating U.S. relations with the Greek dictatorship.

Misleading Poll
They also discovered that the State Department tried to mislead them about a controversial Gallup poll taken in Athens about Greek fondness for the United States.

Assistant State Secretary David Abshire informed the two congressmen that a 1970 poll by a Gallup affiliate, sponsored by the State Department, found that Greek respect for the United States had gone up since the Greek dictatorship came to power.

"About one-third of the persons polled in 1970 indicated an increase in their respect for the United States," Abshire told the congressmen. A total of 70 per cent, he said, had a good opinion of the United States.

Rosenthal sent a staff member to the department to examine the poll and bring back a copy. However, it was stamped "Confidential." He was allowed to see it, because he had a security clearance, but he wasn't permitted to make a copy.

Actually, the poll had been declassified months earlier. A Greek exile journalist, Elias Demetropoulos, obtained a copy not only of the controversial poll but of a covering State Department memorandum for us.

"The reader is cautioned," warns the memo, "to interpret the findings with particular care" because of "the possible influences of the present political climate in Greece."

There may be "some hesitancy on the part of the Athens public to express controversial opinions," added the memo. "Some anti-American attitudes might be withheld." In other words, Greeks may have been afraid to answer the questions honestly for fear of government retaliation.

This caveat was omitted from the information supplied to the two congressmen. Not until my associate Les Whitten called Abshire did he straighten out the misinformation. He got off an immediate letter to the congressmen, explaining that his previous response had contained a "serious deficiency."

"Neither I nor my staff were aware" of the warning that the poll might not be accurate," he wrote. He asked the congressmen to "please accept my apologies."

Martin F. Nolan Says

Teddy Takes the Tour

TOLEDO, Ohio — "There's a spirit, there's a flame, there's something out there," Edward Kennedy assures his Democratic audience. He is talking about the inevitability of a McGovern-Shriver victory. He is unconvincing.

The $100-a-plate dinners at the Lucas County Democratic dinner are having a side order of gloom. The assistant minority leader of the Ohio House introduces Gov. John Gilligan, mostly by using past tense and forecasting how Gilligan's "courage" will be blessed by future generations.

Plagued with the curse of raising taxes, Gilligan is in trouble for 1974, but he is pleased to share the dais with Kennedy.

Congressman Lud Ashley is not in trouble, having won 71 per cent of the vote here last time, but he asked Kennedy to come and introduced the star as "a man clearly destined for even higher public office in the years ahead, the senior senator from Massachusetts, the Honorable John F. Kennedy!"

Ashley's Freudian slip is reinforced in Kennedy's speech, a continuum of the Kennedy legend and the Kennedy reality.

"Coming here tonight brings many warm memories of other days. I remember November, 1960, when John Kennedy came to Toledo four days before the election. He stood at the courthouse here with Governor Mike DiSalle.

He spoke of his dreams for a better land . . . That's the way it was with Robert Kennedy as well. He loved to come to the cities like Toledo and meet the men and women of America."

The crowd loves it. They sit more alertly, they applaud more fervently than when he says "we have a fine and winning ticket for the country, the ticket of George McGovern and Sargent Shriver."

Every visit of John or Robert Kennedy to South Bend, Fort Wayne, Muncie and Indianapolis is similarly clocked and praised. The batteries for the engine are recharged.

Every audience in Indiana or West Virginia seemed to share a dominant thought: the enterprise they expect to recommence Nov. 8.

Outside the Masonic Auditorium here a woman had waited with her Instamatic. But she forgot to take the picture and instead rushed to shake his hand, then shouted, "Teddy in '76."

Maybe, like Lud Ashley, she thought for a moment he really was John Kennedy. She at least saw him as a symbol of that era in America, those years so distant in time but so startlingly fresh in memory.

In rebuilding the castle of that one, brief shining moment, Kennedy is a perdurable, experienced fatalist. If an act of God or Nixon should rescue George McGovern from defeat, Kennedy would be pleased or would surely seem so.

If not, then for the next four years he is again the cynosure of constant, worldwide publicity. He is the inheritor, the healer of his party, the crown prince of the Restoration.

And he seems to love it. Why else would a man arise at 6 a.m. to shake hands at the South Bend Bendix plant with John Brademas, a Congressman re-elected last time with 58 per cent of the vote?

Kennedy has reserved the last two weeks of this campaign for the pleasure of George McGovern. The crown prince will be slugging it out in the trenches with the yeoman until the end.

Talk of an anti-Kennedy faction in the Democratic party is desultory. "There's just no such faction in Ohio," says Mike DiSalle, who tried to get Kennedy to run for President in 1968 at Chicago. "You know, he should be running for his second term as President now. Think of how different the country would have been."

Or might be again. Kennedy on tour is a loose, energetic man, restless and depressed about the country and fatalistic about his role in its future. The road back to Camelot took a detour once before but he is ready and the engine is warming up.

BERRY'S WORLD

© 1972 by NEA, Inc.

Dear God:

For as long as I can remember, I have been perplexed about You. The artists who paint Your portrait never saw You. The best of them used models who may have been sinners. Thus, I do not know what You look like or where You are.

It is not that I do not believe. To the contrary, the only time my faith flagged was in my late teens when I became imbued with tremendous insight and wisdom. What I could not touch or see did not exist. It was at this time that I also pitied my parents' ignorance.

Every night I engaged in a small monologue with YOU. Mostly, I ask favors—like good health, good children, good grandchildren, a plea for the souls of those who have left the premises. You once said: "Ask and you shall receive." So I ask.

Last Sunday my daughter

Kathi attended a new church built like a stable. She was impressed. There were guitars and flowers and smiling faces.

Now, if You can bear with an opinion from the least of Your subjects, I submit that we are turning on the right road to Your Kingdom. Maybe it dates from the short reign of John XXIII.

He transmuted a lot of the inevitability of death, brimstone and fire from his Church, and invited those who had been regarded as heretics in I had lunch in Athens with Archbishop Athenagoras, who was eightyish and as strong as a blacksmith. He said that, in religion, fear would have to be replaced by love.

Well, God, if You want to look backward a short way, You will find that those of us who believe in You have been ruled by fear. When Moses brought those 10 Commandments down from the mountain, the people were dancing and drinking of the grape—a rock festival.

Moses, quite properly, was angry. Harsh rules of behavior were established. The Christians, who believed that Jesus was the Messiah, copied many of the Old Testament rules and added some new ones. Men built temples and churches on the highest hills, thinking they were that much closer to YOU.

Much of what they did for You was done in fear of eternal punishment. They sinned all week and repented on the sabbath. They devised many religions and each one copyrighted You as its own. Some religions built their churches in the shape of caskets.

In the Middle Ages, those who believed in You devised exquisite tortures for those who didn't. The Mohammedans believed that they could gain favor with You by killing anyone who was not a Mohammedan.

The crusader Catholics trying to rescue the Holy Land from others, killed and maimed in Your name. There were a number of holy wars. It is presumptuous of me to try to divine Your wishes, but I can't believe You expect us to behave like savages.

Once, while chatting with some scientists at Raymo-Woolco in California, I asked how they could reconcile their precise computations with a God whom no one has seen. The sum of their response, if You were listening, was: "First, limitless darkness cannot invent itself. It's out there—billions and billions of years of it. Second, gasses and solids have to come from something—they can't come from nothing. There are trillions of planets and suns out there which someone must have fashioned."

"All of them have precise orbits. They do not vary from these paths. They do not collide. They have within them exact atomic particles and weights. Ah, but this is too scientific. Let's get down to basics.

"What makes the union of a man and woman capable of producing a baby? Can science take an ovum and sperm and do anything with it—anything at all? The problem isn't with God. He's out there and He has placed proof all around us. The problem is that we are blind."

I think every growing person should attend services in other churches and temples—not to be converted, but to understand that each is cherished and loved by You. This isn't much of a note, I'm afraid. But it represents what I think, what I believe. When Kathi came home from the stable church I thought it a good sign. Man may be turning away from coffin-shaped churches and death to the humble birth of an infant and love . . .

CSEA-Deputies . . . Controversy Continues

KINGSTON — First Sergeant Donald Policastro, spokesman for the deputies in the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, appeared at a regular bargaining session of the Civil Service Employees Association and the Legislature Tuesday night and flatly rejected CSEA as the bargaining agent for the deputies.

Commenting today, CSEA President John Ray Mayone asked, "If we (CSEA) come up with a blanket raise for all employees, are we to assume that they (the deputies) would reject it, merely because CSEA arranged it?"

"The answer is obvious," he concluded, "and this makes Policastro's position ridiculous at this time."

Mayone said that following Policastro's statement at the negotiating session, in which he expressed the wish that the deputies be allowed to resign from CSEA, Chairman of the Legislature Peter J. Savago said he will check with the county attorney regarding the next move. Mayone made a similar statement saying his organization would check with its attorneys to see that the matter is "handled in proper form."

He also stated that "at the proper time CSEA will demand and get a true free election for the deputy sheriff's to be supervised not by Sheriff William B. Martin but by the Public Employment Relations Board."

At a meeting last Friday, 37 deputies attending (a majority of the department) voted unanimously not to have CSEA represent them "at this time."

The vote came amid charges and counter-charges of pressure being brought to bear on the deputies. Mayone contended that management has put pressure on the deputies not to deal with his union.

Empire Supremacy Threatened

NEW YORK (UPI)—For almost 40 years, the Empire State Building reigned as the tallest in the world.

The building survived a fictional attack by King Kong, and a real airplane crash into its side in 1945. Last year, it became the second tallest in the world. By the end of next year, it is threatened with becoming third tallest.

To halt the relative decline, Robert Jones, a prominent New York architect, announced Tuesday that he is investigating the possibility of increasing the Empire State's height by 11 stories, thus making it once again the tallest in the world.

"We have convinced ourselves it can be done," Jones said. The final decision, however, would be up to the owners of the building, the Empire State Building Association. An official said a decision has not yet been made.

Built in the 1930s, the Empire State is 1,250 feet high. Last year, when the World Trade Center at the southern tip of Manhattan was topped out, the Empire State became 100 feet shorter than the trade center. In Chicago, the Sears Tower is due to be completed late next year or early in 1974. It is to be 1,450 feet high.

Youth Found In Park . . . 'Critical'

PORT EWEN — A 14-year-old boy, reportedly found naked and beaten in a Port Ewen park Tuesday night, is under intensive care today at Kingston Hospital.

First Sergeant Donald Policastro of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department said that the youth was discovered in Ross Park by a man living nearby who notified the boy's father. The father in turn notified Deputy Arthur Nersesian, who had the youth taken to the hospital by Fatum's Ambulance Service.

Hospital authorities reported the youth to be suffering from a drug overdose and admitted him to the intensive care unit, where he was reported in "critical" condition today, Policastro said.

Policastro said that investigation is being conducted to learn the circumstance under which the youth apparently was beaten. He reportedly suffered severe bruises of the head, back and arms. Police have been unable to question the youth today and said he would probably be unavailable for questioning until tonight.

Massagers Present Shock Danger

CHICAGO (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. says 11,000 belt massagers it sold between December 1969 and Oct. 4 present a potential danger of serious electrical shock to their owners.

The company issued a warning Tuesday, asking all owners of massagers with model No. 449-29110 to bring the units to the nearest Sears outlet for repair.

The company said the number will be found on a plate mounted on the underside of the unit's motor housing. The model is a multispeed belt massager with a push button, lighted switch.

A company spokesman said in certain units, serious shock may result if someone touches the massager while touching a water pipe, radiator, faucet or other ground connection.

Hemophiliacs File Court Suit For Treatment

NEW YORK (AP)—Four young Bronx hemophiliacs have filed a class action suit in U.S. District Court seeking to compel the federal government to provide free treatment for victims of the disease.

The suit filed Tuesday against Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson asks treatment for the four boys and an estimated 25,000 other hemophiliacs in the country.

Hemophilia, which prevents the blood from clotting normally, may be controlled by therapy with blood plasma or by using an expensive clotting concentrate derived from blood, the suit said.

Such treatment costs more than $22,000 a year per patient, according to the lawyer for the boys, Howard E. Goldfluss.

"The government gives methadone to drug addicts to help them overcome their habit," he said. "Why shouldn't it provide what a hemophiliac needs to control bleeding and prevent crippling and death?"

The suit was filed on behalf of James Hunter, 9, Michael Druck, 11, Raymond Dattoli, 12, and Joseph Carrozza, Jr., 12.

UCCC Faculty Association Withdraws 'Faith' Charges

STONE RIDGE bargaining charges against the negotiations. The Ulster County Community College Faculty Association has withdrawn its bad faith charges during the resumed contract negotiations.

Allen Duane, president of the Faculty Association, said today that the group has instructed its attorneys to withdraw the charges at the Albany offices of the Public Employment Relations Board.

The bad faith charges were originally filed with PERB on Sept. 6. The day before, the county's negotiating team, according to Duane, had abruptly adjourned a negotiating session. The Faculty Association charged, at that time, that the county had no intention of negotiating a contract.

By withdrawing the charges," said Duane, "we want to indicate our satisfaction that the negotiations are taking place in good faith... Anything we can do to improve the general atmosphere of the negotiations has to be tentatively settled. Duane said he expects the negotiations will continue. Three negotiating sessions have been held during the past two weeks; approximately half of the 16 items included in a areas," said Duane, "but we the contract talks."

Ellenville police reported that the bus had halted on Route 209 at the intersection of Phyllis Drive. Karen Leitstein of 15 Phyllis Drive stepped off the bus and was reportedly struck by the motorcycle, operated by Theodore Burakoff of Napanoch, who alleged attempted to pass the stopped bus on the right side.

Burakoff was issued tickets for passing a stopped school bus and for improper passing. The girl was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital for injuries to the left leg and head.

Mary L. Rowland, 49, of RD 3, Saugerties, was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance after a collision on Foxhall Avenue Tuesday night.

Kingston police reported she was driving north on Foxhall Avenue at 8:05 p.m. in the left lane and running without lights.

Joseph E. St. Paul, 54, of 45 Sylvester Street, driving south, reportedly saw her coming and slowed to a halt before the collision.

Father of Three Swims Seas, Sons Drown as Rescue Fails

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI) — The father said he kept swimming through the swells during the night, hoping to reach shore in time to save the three young sons fastened to him by a rope.

By the time dawn came and George J. Jaeger floated to the beach at Chappaquiddick Island, his sons were dead. Jaeger told police he bound Bruce, 15, Robert, 11, and Clifford, 10, around the waist and attached a tow rope to his own body after their 30-foot cabin cruiser developed engine trouble, sprang a leak, and sank off the coast of Martha's Vineyard.

Dr. David Rappoport, who tended Jaeger Tuesday after the ordeal, said, "I understand that the boys kept slipping under and falling asleep." Police Sgt. Jesse Oliver said Jaeger told him the boys kept swallowing water and got too sick to continue.

Police said Jaeger could have been pulling his sons through the water for as long as 12 hours since their boat was last spotted at 6:45 p.m. Monday. Jaeger called authorities about 7 a.m. Tuesday from a home near North Neck Beach.

He told authorities the engine apparently shook loose from its mounts and knocked a hole in the boat, causing it to flood and sink.

A state medical examiner said the boys had been dead for several hours before they were brought ashore.

Also found on the beach was the body of Jaeger's father, George C. Jaeger, 73. The lone survivor said the elderly man slipped loose from the tow rope. His body apparently floated in with the tide. All the dead were wearing life jackets.

"There's no telling how many miles Jaeger swam in the dark and the heavy seas," Edgartown Police Chief Dominic Arena said. The chief said Jaeger was running 6 to 8 feet high during the night, but that Jaeger told him he kept swimming until his feet touched bottom off the beach.

Jaeger was in "good condition" today at Martha's Vineyard Hospital.

Kingston Registration Termed Light

KINGSTON Voter registration figures for Ulster County are being compiled today after the final day of registration Tuesday.

Edwin F. Callahan, administrative assistant of the Board of Elections said today that it will be another week before final figures are released. However he noted that registration was heavy in New Paltz, Marlboro and Shawangunk but light in the City of Kingston.

Although registration for November election has been open since Dec. 3 of last year with Oct. 3, 1972 as the final date, the board of elections office is still getting calls today from people asking where they may register. There will be no further registration for this year's election.

Car Recovered

Sergeant Joseph Feraca Sr. of the Town of Esopus police discovered the car, a 1970 Buick sedan owned by Craig Mark of Accord. Investigation into the theft is continuing.

They tell the story of the young man who was convicted of spying against Persia and was brought before the General to hear his sentence pronounced.

The General rose to his feet. With piercing eyes he looked into the face of the condemned man.

After a few minutes of silence, he spoke. "Young man," he said, "you have been found guilty of spying against my country and now you will receive your sentence. If you will look down the corridor to my right you will see an open doorway. Beyond the open door is the courtyard. You may walk through that door and face the consequences, whatever they may be. But you have a choice. Down the corridor to my left, is a black door that is closed.

Of course, you have no idea through the open door to my hours in which to decide." The young man was taken back to his cell. He paced the floor, trying to decide which door he would choose. The next morning he was again taken

Brown, Krempl to Head Course

KINGSTON Stanley L. Brown, Jr. of Stanley Brown and Associates, who presents Dale Carnegie Training in this area is in charge of the Carnegie Course coming to Kingston and being sponsored by The Daily Freeman.

As Associate Sponsor, Brown is responsible for the promotion and instruction of all five courses in the Westchester County and the Mid-Hudson regions, with his offices headquartered in White Plains.

Brown also announced that Paul Krempl of Red Hook, who is an area representative on his staff will also be responsible for the formation of this new class. It will be remembered by many local residents and members of the business community that Krempl was responsible for the formation of the last class, Kingston Class No. 16, that was graduated this past April and that Brown headed up the promotion of Kingston Class No. 15, which was graduated in

PAUL KREMPL

July, 1971. Both of these classes were sponsored by The Daily Freeman.

Brown reports, "The response to these last two promotions was overwhelming and we were not able to take all the people who wanted to enroll. With this response and the many inquiries from local residents and businesses, we decided to bring the Carnegie course to the Kingston area at this time. With more than 550 graduates in the Kingston area, this program has become very popular."

Brown and Krempl are both Certified Instructors of the Dale Carnegie Course. Krempl having taught classes in Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Hudson and northern Westchester. Krempl lives with his wife, Dorothy and their four children at 8 Park Avenue, Red Hook.

Both Brown and Krempl will be handling inquiries and interviewing individuals who inquire about the benefits of Carnegie training and will also be available to business and industry in the area to conduct presentations and workshops for the benefit of their employees.

Anyone seeking information about the course may reach Brown or Krempl by calling The Daily Freeman, phone number 331-5000.

before the Persian General. He stood erect as the General asked, "Have you made your choice?" "Yes," the young man replied, "I shall walk through the open door." With fear and apprehension the condemned young man slowly walked down the corridor and through the open door. There he was met by a firing squad. Man after man was brought before the General and was convicted. To each man the choice was offered but, after much deliberation, the open door was always chosen.

And then one morning the Persian General stood in preparation to pass sentence on another convicted spy. He said, "You may walk through the open door or the closed black door, and you will have twenty-four hours in which to make your choice." The young man quickly replied, "I won't need twenty-four hours General. I have made my decision. I'll take the black door."

He walked briskly down the corridor and, with his trembling hand, reached out and pulled the black door open. There, to his delight, he found a life of freedom. He walked away a free man.

Often we are inclined to hold back. We are prone to sidestep anything that is unfamiliar. We hesitate to pursue that which has not been tried and proven. This trait can cheat us out of many worthwhile accomplishments.

Wasn't it Thomas Carlyle who said, "Go as far as you can see and, when you get there, you can see farther."

When we develop a strong faith in ourselves and our own abilities, when we become willing to choose our course of action and go as far as we can see, then we have taken another important step toward the self-preparation that will enable us to achieve much more in life.

Cit y School Dispute . . . Both Sides Comment

KINGSTON Last week's legislative hearing on the contract dispute between the Kingston Consolidated School District's Administrative and Supervisory Personnel Association and the Board of Education has prompted comments from two parties.

In a statement released today, ASPA's executive committee took exception to statements made at the hearing by Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann. At the same time, the Kingston Teachers Federation has harshly criticized school board president Harold Keator for his handling of the legislative hearing.

At that hearing, Salzmann noted that administrative personnel in the Central Office received a 3.6 per cent average increase in salary this year. He added that he felt it was time to "keep the lid on" administrative salaries.

The executive committee of ASPA responded "The Superintendent failed to point out that the Associate Superintendent for Personnel and the two Associate Superintendents for Curriculum received 4.5 per cent raises and the Business Manager a 1.2 per cent raise. The average of the salary increase is 3.6 per cent. Mr. Salzmann conveniently neglected to mention the fact that he received a 5.5 per cent increase."

The ASPA executive committee emphasized that the group's concerns are not monetary, but that the "disagreement is with the Superintendent's and the Board's inability to define the manner in which future salaries will be determined."

The Kingston Teachers Federation, meanwhile, has termed Keator "without dignity or humanity," after his handling of the legislative hearing. "The Federation believes that the frank and open exchange of ideas, positive or negative, by adults who do not take personal offense when challenged is basic to good education. Such was not the atmosphere at the Legislative Hearing. Mr. Keator's attitude and conduct were not mature or in the best interest of the children of this district."

"Ours is not to take sides in the contract dispute, but to demand that the welfare of the district and its children be continuously the primary thought of our Board President."

Lucky Platt . . . Warm Welcome

NEW PALTZ
The welcome Lucky Platt has received in New Palz has been a warm one, according to Bob Kaye, manager of the New Palz store.

"The response has been excellent," Kaye told The Freeman. "We've been very well received by the community."

Kaye said he had a number of people tell him how glad they were to have a Lucky Platt in New Palz.

"We are an old, established store," said Kaye, which seems an understatement considering Lucky Platt's 103-year history in the Hudson Valley.

The new store is located in the shopping plaza at the corner of Main Street and Manheim Boulevard.

Containing 12,000 square feet of floor space, the store has a staff of 20 people to provide service to its customers.

"We carry mainly name brands, names people are familiar with," Kaye said.

The store features ready-to-wear items in women's, misses', junior's, men's, and children's clothes, lingerie and accessories.

"If there is anything new in fashion, Lucky Platt will have it," Kaye promised.

Though the accent is on fashion, the new store also has well stocked departments in domestics and linens, gifts, and small appliances.

One feature of the New Palz Lucky Platt is the arrangement of merchandise into compact departments, with specific items in each separate department. "It makes it very easy for the customer to find what he or she is looking for," said Kaye.

Store hours are 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. There is ample parking for customers' convenience.

It was too little.

The most important man in her life walked out. Her father. Her mother was too busy trying to support the family alone to offer much help or guidance. The closeness she lacked at home she

Gilman Co-Chairman Cites Advertisements

MIDDLETOWN that link him to leading figures in American history are "highly presumptuous and full of self-serving misrepresentations." By attempting to link his political advertisements with George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and others," Karnas said, "the Democratic candidate does not want to be elected; he wants to be enshrined."

Karnas said he hoped that Dow's future advertisements would "deal with the real issues facing the people of our district, instead of indulging in self-glorification. The ads completely distort his actual record in Congress," said Karnas. He cited several examples:

"Down voted for the anti-lottery and welfare bills which served to increase education and welfare costs at the state and local levels."

"Dow is sponsoring a school aid bill actually designed to force the state to raise its record-high income tax still further."

"Dow voted against aid to Israel legislation six times in 1971 and 1972, and from 1965-68 he voted for all the money bills that enabled President Johnson to expand the war in Vietnam."

Karnas said that "Dow's self-inflating approach reaches its peak with a statement," continued Karnas, "that on Aug. 3, 1971, Dow received an extraordinary tribute from Congress. Business in the House ground to a halt for 60 minutes while representatives from across the country hailed Dow for his courage and leadership."

"The fact is," explained Karnas, "that the House had no official business before it at the time, that the chair was occupied by an obscure congressman from Missouri, William L. Hungate, that the contrived 'program' in praise of Dow was made up by 17 of his political allies, that every congressman with anything better to do was out of the House at the time."

"Finally," said Karnas, "the fact is that use of the House floor for such political eulogies is as old as the House itself. 'It is about time that Dow stopped running from his real record and started leveling with the people of our district, instead of trying to create false images of himself,' Karnas concluded."

AWARD FOR ROBISON — Representative Howard W. Robison (R) of the 33rd District, accepts "Watchdog of the Treasury" award from H. Vernon Scott, Scott is the president of National Associated Businessmen, Inc. The award, the third such honor bestowed upon Robison, was in recognition of the congressman's 83.3 per cent economy voting record for the 92nd Congress. Robison is the Republican incumbent in Ulster's new 27th District.

Senate Holds Robison Act

TIoga and local hospitals to improve upon existing facilities. Robison said that he expected quick enactment of the bill until just after the House vote on it. At that time it became apparent that the Senate would insist on including the emergency medical services provisions in an omnibus $3 billion community health care bill. Congressman Robison said he had worked with Sen. Edward Kennedy's Health Subcommittee in an attempt to get Senate consideration of a separate medical care bill, to no avail.

"The Senate Subcommittee is insisting on its omnibus bill," Robison said, "and the more I argue with them, the more they puff up in defense of their own legislation." Robison commented: "There doesn't seem to be enough time to work out a compromise at this late date in the Congressional session. The House has not held hearings on many provisions of the Senate bill, and there just isn't enough time to get that kind of work done," he said.

Country's Environment Given Top Priority

Reiterating the importance of environmental protection, Blazer noted that it is of great concern to the people of the 27th district. He added that when elected he would make

WHERE THEY STAND THE ISSUES OF THE 1972 CAMPAIGN

Drug Abuse

REPUBLICANS

The permissiveness of the 1960s left no legacy more insidious than drug abuse.

By the time our nation awakened to this cancerous social ill, it found no major combat weapons available.

We quickly launched a massive assault against drug abuse.

We pledge to seek further international agreements to restrict the production and movement of dangerous drugs.

We firmly oppose efforts to make drugs easily available. We equally oppose the legalization of marijuana. We intend to solve problems, not create bigger ones by legalizing drugs of unknown physical impact.

DEMOCRATS

Drug addiction and alcoholism are health problems. Drugs prey on children, destroy lives and communities, force crimes to satisfy addicts, corrupt police and government and finance the expansion of organized crime. A massive national effort, equal to the scale and complexity of the problem, is essential.

We support a massive law enforcement effort, supported by increased funds and personnel, against the suppliers and distributors of heroin and other dangerous drugs, with increased penalties for major narcotics traffickers.

An all-out investigative and prosecutory effort against corruption in government and law enforcement.

The positions above were extracted from the official 1972 platforms of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

VALPARAISO, FLA. — U. S. Air Force Captain Peter J. Kalisky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Kalisky of RD 2, Highland, has received the Distinguished Flying Cross for service in Southeast Asia. His positive command control of the resources engaged in this difficult combat air crew recovery effort led to the successful rescue of the two pilots from certain capture and possible death at the hands of the enemy, the citation continued. Captain Kalisky was honored during ceremonies at Elgin Air Force Base in Florida where he now serves as a pilot with the 55th Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron of the air force which is celebrating its 25th anniversary.

A Message to Carriers:

"YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING ON THE BALL"

Johnny Bench

"SO YOU'RE A NEWSPAPER CARRIER!"

Nobody knows pitching better than a catcher. So when Cincinnati Reds star Johnny Bench talks about "something on the ball," he's thinking of every successful pitcher he knows.

But "something on the ball" isn't restricted to the ball park. You can say it about people who have that something special that leads to success. Helpfulness. Willingness to work. Pride in accomplishment.

Add in a few more items like "performs in all kinds of weather," and "likes to give friendly service to the customer," and you've got a pretty good description of your newspaper carrier. Chances are that thriftiness is part of the picture, too. Thousands of newspaper carriers set aside part of their earnings each month for college and other important future needs. U. S. Savings Bonds are one of their favorite ways to build that "tomorrow fund," just as they are for their parents and millions of other Americans.

So Johnny Bench is not alone in his tribute to carriers. Uncle Sam, through the Treasury Department, salutes them too. And now that it's Newspaper Carrier Day again, maybe you'd like to join in.

BENCH — Born in Oklahoma and was a newspaperboy there. High school valedictorian, active in 4-H Club, Little League, starting at age 7. Twice on all-star H. S. baseball team. All Star catcher in three minor leagues, and '67 Minor League Player of the Year. National League Rookie of the Year and Jim Thorpe Foundation Award winner '68. National League Most Valuable Player and Major League Player of the Year '70. Golden Glove Award winner '71. National League All Star catcher five straight years — with a '72 vote total that was tops for both leagues.

In 46 of 50 States

Daylight Time Ends on Oct. 29

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans in 46 of the 50 states will turn their clocks back one hour at 2 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 29, when Daylight Saving Time officially ends this year.

It was not until 1967 that the U.S. Congress passed legislation requiring that all states observing DST do so uniformly from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

However, the idea was first proposed by Ben Franklin, who pointed out back in the 1700s that it would be smart to save an hour of daylight by "postponing nightfall."

Franklin's towering reputation as a scientist had been so great in America and in Europe, where he had been the first American to receive an honorary degree from Oxford University and was the first American Minister to France, that nearly everybody believes that his proposal of DST was for purely scientific reasons.

Actually he was a lively night owl who loved the ladies, particularly after his wife Deborah died in 1773. Bulova Watch Co. researchers report, and he frequently rose very late in the day. He developed this habit in Paris at the French Court dominated by the fun-loving Queen Marie Antoinette. Not unnaturally, Franklin regretted that he thus missed so many of the summer's daylight hours.

Franklin's suggestion was not accepted until World War I—and then only as a wartime measure—when various nations, including the United States, legislated Daylight Saving Time during the summer to cut electric power costs in war industries and to make blackouts more effective.

Before the 1967 Uniform Time Act became effective, only 18 states observed DST on a state-wide basis, 18 other states observed it in some manner during the summer, and 14 states did not observe it. Of the 130 U.S. cities with more than 100,000 population, 71 observed DST and 59 did not.

Pacific Winds May Generate Electricity

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—The high winds of the Pacific Northwest coastline may be used in the future to generate electricity.

Dr. E. Wendell Hewson, who heads a team of scientists from Oregon State University working on a three-year $44,500 grant from private utility companies, envisions groups of giant fans 100 feet in diameter built on platforms and powering electric generators.

"If there's any place in the United States with the potential, it's the Pacific Northwest. The winds sweep right in off the ocean unobstructed, strike the coastal range and are uplifted with a corresponding increase in velocity," Hewson said.

Hewson, the chairman of the Department of Atmospheric Sciences at OSU, said the British researched aero-generators after World War II, and an aero-generator at Grandpa's Knob, Vt., was built and produced 1,250 kilowatts of electricity. Both projects were victims of the belief that atomic energy was the "ultimate" power source.

It would take an average wind velocity of just over 12 knots to make the 10,000 kilowatt generators feasible, Hewson said. Winter wind readings at test spots along the Oregon coast have ranged from more than 15 knots average to 9.7 knots.

The highest sustained wind on record—not just a gust—was 113 miles per hour recorded at the mouth of the Columbia River in January, 1921. Gusts of up to 127 m.p.h. were recorded in Corvallis and Portland in 1962 and an unofficial record 200 m.p.h. gust occurred at Mt. Hebo on the coast last year before an anemometer blew away.

Even though researchers are hampered by lack of previous research, they have found some important elements to wind-generated electricity. The fans must be placed in spots that have a steady wind, not just a high velocity, and the closer to the ground the better.

If the study proves the aero-generators feasible, Hewson said, the giant fans could be placed out of sight to avoid blemishing any of the coast's natural beauty. Another environmental plus is that the fans are a completely clean source of energy with no undesired byproducts.

Although Hewson admits that the generators could never replace nuclear or hydroelectric power, he said it would serve as a supplementary source of power during periods of high power use. He said that peak power needs in the winter correspond to peak wind periods and would be ideal for smaller communities not needing large amounts of power.

When the federal act became law all states but Arizona and Hawaii accepted DST, but it has since been dropped by Michigan and Indiana.

In 1968, DST was defeated in a popular referendum in Michigan by only 488 votes. Many observers credited farmers and their wives with the defeat. This defeat encouraged an anti-DST campaign in nearby Indiana, which like Michigan, has a large farming population.

And the Indiana legislature voted, in 1970, not to observe DST.

Some Michigan farmers' wives claimed that their husbands would be more irritable in the morning if they got up an hour earlier, the researchers reported, and that they would be excessively tired at night. Many farmer husbands, on the other hand, pointed out that "changing the clock" wouldn't change the time the chickens laid the eggs and the cows woke up and needed tending. In addition, some rural Fundamentalists still challenge Daylight Saving Time as a sacrilegious "tampering with God's time," thought up and promoted by Godless city slickers.

But for most Americans today, Daylight Saving Time is a common sense way of making better use of the longer hours of daylight from spring through fall. However, despite the federal law, cities and other communities are perfectly free to observe or not observe DST in any way they prefer. There are communities, for example, that observe what is called "Wildcat Daylight Saving Time" during the summer months without any formal legislation, and others, in Alaska, that have their clocks running two hours ahead of Standard Time all year round. Few of these communities are served by regularly scheduled trains, planes or buses.

La Leche League Cookbook Available

"Mother's in the Kitchen," the La Leche League cookbook will be featured Saturday at the Grand Union Kingston La Leche League bake sale. Most of the food at the sale will be made from recipes listed in the book. In addition, copies of the book will be available for sale. "Mother's in the Kitchen" is a group of recipes collected and tested by La Leche

League mothers all over the country. In the Introduction, Editor Roberta Johnson says that the book's purpose is "to help mother plan nourishing meals for their family using the best of products available on the market today." Because the recipes were contributed by mothers of young children, most of them require only a minimum of preparation. The book is color-coded for easy reference with sections on meat, breads, desserts, vegetables, salads, soups and stews, eggs, cheese, snacks and breakfast. There are also many meat recipes for high nutrition using a variety of seldom-used meats. For those interested in the cookbook but who are unable to attend the sale, extra copies are available from Mrs. Gordon Usticke of Kingston.

County Legion Auxiliary Gives Report

The monthly meeting of the Ulster Co. American Legion Auxiliary was held September 25 at the Marletown Post No. 1512, with chairman, Annette McMonagle presiding.

The chairman read a report of the State Convention which she attended in July. She also presented awards and citations to various units for membership and donations to Cancer Control.

Discussed at the meeting were the various programs in which the Auxiliary is active: Cancer Control Committee will concentrate its aid on the Leukemia program.

Children and Youth Committee's goal is the State President's Project, aid to the Sight and Hearing Centers in Buffalo and Suffolk County. In addition, members are asked to help their communities in programs concerned with drug addiction, child abuse, immunization, and venereal disease.

Foreign Relations — The Auxiliary studies and financially assists one country or area each year. The British Crown Colony of Hong Kong will be studied and assisted this year.

Rehabilitation — First and foremost, work is dedicated to veterans of all wars. The Chairman stressed the Christmas Shop at the Veterans' Hospital, Bingo programs, plus continuous contributions of paperback books, magazine subscriptions, cancelled stamps and old eyeglasses for the needy.

Coupons — Trading stamps, and certain coupons on brand foods are collected by members and used for equipment at the American Legion Mt. Camp in Tupper Lake, N.Y.

Community Service Committee is now collecting store coupons which are donated to the Kingston Indians. In addition, our members aid their communities with various drives such as: Blood Banks, Ambulance Corp., Recycling projects, etc.

Americanism — Stresses patriotism to America. Be proud of it, fly its' colors, uphold its beliefs; members are urged to fly the colors properly each day. The next meeting will be at the Woodstock Post No. 1026 on October 23 at 8 p.m.

Children Visit Fire Company

The children of Port Ewen Nursery School visited the Port Ewen Fire Dept. Friday, Oct. 6, in connection with Fire Prevention Week. While there, they were shown fire equipment, and allowed to try on various firemen's attire. This was one of several field trips the children have taken, including a trip to a boat yard, Mott's Apple Farm, and the local park. Teacher of Port Ewen Nursery School is Mrs. Kathy Pittner who has had previous teaching experience and holds a BS degree in Elementary Education. While attaining her degree, she specialized in the study of early childhood. Children, ages three to five, from all communities are invited to enroll any time during the year. Further information may be obtained by contacting Judy Celluch, 200 Rogers Street, Port Ewen, or Bonnie Langston, RR 1, Box 379, Ulster Park.

Up and Down Scales Of Juries, Justice

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1972 by Chicago Tribune.
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: "COOLVILLE, OHIO" was disgusted with jury duty and wanted to know if her experience was unique: I had a disgusting experience in San Diego. One juror said, "If we don't find this man guilty we will never be asked to serve on jury duty again, and that's the way I make a little extra money, so let's make it unanimous and go home."

My husband served on a jury in Tuscaloosa, Ala. He said a cafe owner was being tried for arson. Another juror, a salesman in one of the stores, said they should find the accused guilty because he had voted to keep the stores open on Thursday afternoons instead of closing them as was the custom during the summer months.

TWO FORMER JURORS

DEAR ABBY: I served on a jury in Columbus, Ohio, and I received the most valuable lesson on being an American in all my 52 years of life.

I used to sneer about the rich getting away with murder while the poor languished in prisons, but when we hear the case of a convict accused during the prison riots in Ohio you wouldn't have believed the way the judge, lawyers and jurors bent over backwards to weigh all the evidence and come to a fair conclusion. The accused was already a convict, he was black and uneducated, but we jurors tried to put ourselves in his place. We knew in our hearts that man was not guilty! And we judged him innocent!

FORMER CYNIC IN COLUMBUS

DEAR ABBY: After passing judgments on several cases, one of the women jurors told us she made all her decisions by following the horoscope! I pray God I am never tried by a jury of my peers.

APPALLED IN L. A.

DEAR ABBY: When I was serving on a jury in New Mexico the foreman suggested that we give the "poor woman" who was suing in a personal injuries case everything she wanted because the insurance company had plenty of money. I had the feeling the "poor woman" was lying on the stand, but everyone else was for letting her sock it to them, and I'm ashamed to admit they talked me into it.

STILL ASHAMED

DEAR ABBY: I served on a jury with 10 honest sincere people who all agreed on a verdict of "Not Guilty." But a romance had developed between a married woman and a very stubborn, prejudiced, closed-minded man. We needed 11 "not guilty" votes, but the man held out and the woman refused to go against him, so the trial had to be rescheduled four months later.

WASTE OF TIME IN GEORGIA

DEAR ABBY: I served on a jury. One of the women jurors refused to believe the accused could be guilty of rape because he had such a nice-looking mother. Another juror (a man) said, "But his chin is so weak, he can't possibly have any character." Another one said, "Let's not come to a hasty decision. The county is paying for all the meals, and the food is sure good here."

LEARNED A LOT IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR ABBY: Re jury duty. Having recently served a month's jury duty (criminal cases, Detroit) I wish to praise the organization of the court, the consideration accorded the accused, and the common sense and courage of my fellow jurors. We thoroughly discussed each case and arrived at what we felt were fair and sound verdicts. My jury experience has strengthened my faith in our courts.

PROUD IN DETROIT

DEAR ABBY: I served on a jury once and was appalled by the ignorance of some so-called intelligent people. One woman (a professor's wife) voted "guilty" because of the way the defendant's jaw muscles moved when he talked. Another juror suggested we wrap it up as soon as possible because he had tickets to a football game and wanted to get there early. Imagine! One half hour of "deliberation" sent a man to prison from 8 to 12 years. I couldn't sleep for a week because I felt the accused wasn't given half a chance.

DISHEARTENED IN MASS.

DEAR ABBY: I served in L.A. Superior Court. Every day one of the male jurors brought a small bottle of bourbon. He and the other male jurors, plus a couple of ladies, would nip all day long. I could never understand how the bailiff never noticed or how he failed to smell it.

I shudder when I think that such people are deciding the "guilt" or "innocence" of others.

By HELOISE HOW TO SPOT YOUR FAVORITE SPOON

Dear Gals: Do you have trouble finding your favorite spoon or knife in your kitchen drawer? I think you do, so get out that bright red nail polish and dab it on all the articles that you urgently need from time to time.

This helps to keep the nerves calm when you are in a hurry — no problem spotting that red!

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: After the birth of my first daughter, I found myself with very little cash and an empty cigar can. (You must have seen the pink and blue cans produced by a cigar company, bearing the greeting: It's a boy, or, It's a girl.)

With the addition of a few pink and white carnations, the message was clear — much to the delight of my wife and her visitors.

A masculine approach to a most feminine situation.

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal investigation of hard drugs traffic in Chicago's Rush Street night club district has sought employe records of a lounge owned by Joe Pepitone, Chicago Cubs first baseman, federal officials said Tuesday.

The records were to be presented to a special grand jury investigating narcotics traffic.

Michael Fitzsimmons, regional director of the Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement (ODALE), said Pepitone's lounge was only one of a number of bars and nightspots under investigation. Fitzsimmons said Pepitone was not personally involved in the inquiry at present.

The Cub star opened the lounge, known as "Joe Pepitone's Thing," about a year ago. It has since become a popular hangout, particularly for Chicago sports figures.

Fitzsimmons said subpoenas were issued for records of the lounge's employes and when the documentation was not produced, the government agency instituted proceedings to show cause why contempt should not be brought. Pepitone's brother, Billy, produced the records after the request for a show cause hearing was made to federal court. Fitzsimmons said.

Thanks to the Offensive Backfield

Real Maroons Routed Newburgh

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON Not really, of course. The real football fan appreciates good line play and, although everyone would like the glory, Sometime between the second week of September and the last week of October the linemen fans come to life to sing the praises of the unsung heroes of football.

"Linemen," they say, "don't get enough publicity. You never mention their names in the paper and you can barely hear them on radio or TV. How about it... without linemen and their blocking those runners and passers wouldn't be anywhere." And so it goes.

No question about it... linemen do go unnoticed most of the season. Of course the pros get nice healthy pay checks so they can cry all the way to the bank. Collegians know the pro scouts are watching. But what about the high schoolers? They're out there banging heads and nobody realizes it.

What all this is leading up to is praise of Kingston High's offensive backfield for the job it did against Newburgh Monday. We know that fellows like Jim Milano, Jim Gualtieri, Don Hopper, Jeff Lowe, and whoever else provided the blocking for Walt Houghtaling, Bob Marz, Tim Pillsworth and the rest were invaluable.

But the offensive line did what everyone knew it could do. It was the offensive backfield that had people worried. You remember the offensive backfield? While Kingston was losing to Saugerties and Beacon it was having its problems. Halfback Marz was running well, but there was no one else, and Houghtaling was throwing below par.

Then came the Newburgh game. Kingston's coaches decided that straight ahead stuff would work; so with the offensive line (see, we mentioned it) blowing the Goldbacks away, the gains followed. Marz, however, wasn't the only groundgainer.

Pillsworth, formerly a lineman himself (he wears No. 80 at home and No. 78 on the road), who had such a terrible debut at fullback in Beacon, showed what a difference a week can make. He moved right with the ball, followed the right people up the middle, and backed up valuable yardage.

He also took some of the pressure off Marz. When Newburgh started to fill the line, Marz went around it. And he had the speed to turn the corner more than a few times.

When Newburgh didn't know whether Pillsworth was going up the middle or Marz was going around end, Houghtaling threw. He had his game in that department.

Kingston played the kind of football expected of it. The feeling here is that the Maroons who beat Newburgh were the real Maroons. The Saugerties-Beacon losses were the flukes.

Only one thing can determine that and that's the rest of the schedule. Was the Newburgh game the start of KHS' second season? We'll know more Saturday when Ketcham comes to town.

EXTRA POINTS — A correction... the Kingston touchdown by Marz Monday was the second one turned in by the offense this season, not the first as we reported Tuesday... Football statistics, especially in high school, make one wary. There seemed to be some question on NFA's home stats (which we printed Tuesday). The important one was correct: KHS 20, NFA 6.

Foreman Kayoes Sorrels

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Undeatable heavy weight George Foreman knocked out Terry Sorrels with a right uppercut in the second round of a scheduled 15-rounder Tuesday night after a mid-ring slugging match.

Foreman, 220, a 1968 Olympic gold medalist, dropped Sorrels, 210, Austin, Tex., at 1:05 in the second.

Foreman stalked Sorrels throughout the first round with both fighters trying to size up each other and the action was limited to a few jabs.

He pressed the attack in the second with the fighters finally slugging it out at mid-ring. Sorrels slipped to the canvas when he missed with a haymaker and rose only to be downed for the 10-count by Foreman.

NBA Opens 1972-73 Season

Same Old Knicks Even Without Reed

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

The New York Knicks must be running their game situations on carbon copies. They went to the 1972 playoff finals without injured Willis Reed and are off to a fine start in the 1972-73 season minus their beloved leader.

Reed sidelined for five games by a bruised thigh muscle, watched his mates roll to a 113-89 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics Tuesday night. The score could have been worse, but Coach Red Holzman showed some mercy by playing his scrubs for most of the last quarter after New York built a 33-point lead.

Dollar Bill Bradley, despite being penalized with three quick fouls, scored a game high 26 points for New York. Dave DeBusschere, the Knicks' other starting forward, netted 18. They were better than .500 from the floor as they combined for 20 of 36 attempts.

"We controlled the backboards and were helped by three steals in the first period," said Bradley. Frazier's triple theft stunned Seattle into almost complete immobility as the Knicks, who trailed 8-0 shortly after the opening whistle, ballooned a 22-19 lead into a 37-21 margin with a 15-2 spurt midway in the first half.

"A good start was important to us, especially without Willis," Bradley said. "It's the mark of a right attitude. We moved exceptionally well and played a tight defense to go with an offense that dominated the game."

John Brisker, recruited from the American Basketball Association after the Pittsburgh franchise was disbanded, led Seattle with 16 points and Jim McDaniels, another former ABA All-Star, added 14. Brisker, a more prolific scorer in the junior circuit, was considerably handcuffed by Bradley's defense. Spencer Haywood, a third celebrated ABA star of the past, was limited to 12 points.

KHS Harriers Do It Again

KINGSTON Kingston High School's varsity cross-country team has done it again.

The Maroon harriers handed powerful Roy C. Ketcham High its first dual meet defeat in five years at Forsyth Park Tuesday, turning back the Dutchess County Scholastic League's defending champs, 20-35.

Kingston did it by sweeping away with the first four spots in the meet, upsetting Ketcham's highly touted balance. And while John Cabel and Keith White were expected to finish one-two for KHS, it was the showing of Bruce Chambers and Bill Krempel that really made the difference.

Chambers and Krempel came in three-four respectively, both nosing out Ketcham's No. 1 man, Charlie Gysin. Thus, Ketcham came in with the fifth through ninth place finishers, but Kingston had enough of a cushion with its one through four to win.

Cabell broke his own course record again, this time lowering it from 10:24 to 10:21. White continued to improve his time as he posted a 10:50 finish. Chambers was in at 11:32 to take third and Krempel was across the tape in 11:37, one second better than Ketcham's Gysin.

Further down the pack for Kingston was Hugh Greer in 10th and Ken Kelley in 11th.

The win boosted Kingston's record to 3-0 and kept its three-year unbeaten record at home. The Maroons face Arlington at Forsyth Park on Friday.

In Tuesday's JV meet, Ketcham recorded a 27-32 win despite the one-two finish of Kingston's Mark Davis and Jeff Robinson.

Openers for New Hockey Association

By United Press International will be at home to the Quebec Nordiques.

The World Hockey Association, after spending a long summer ravaging the lineups of rival National Hockey League clubs, initiates its first season of on-ice activity tonight with games scheduled at Ottawa and Cleveland.

A league spokesman said sellouts were expected for both contests, with crowds of up to 10,000 people in attendance. Ottawa will be host to the play with the Jets when they open their season in New York

Thursday night against the Raiders.

Cleveland's most outstanding name is goaltender Gerry Cheevers, who set a record of playing in 32 consecutive games without a loss for the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins last season. He will be tending goal tonight for the Crusaders, who also have Gerry Pinder and Gary Jarrett from the California Golden Seals.

Quebec could be one of the stronger teams in the Eastern Division although it didn't raid too heavily into the NHL. The Nordiques did take away J. C. Tremblay, a former All-Star defenseman, from Montreal.

Ottawa and Alberta don't appear too strong on paper. The Nationals have veteran goaltender Les Binkley from Pittsburgh and Wayne Carleton from California while the Oilers have Jim Harrison from Toronto, Allan Hamilton from Buffalo, Bob Wall from Detroit and Doug Barrie from Los Angeles.

In addition to Winnipeg at New York, other Thursday games include Chicago at Houston and Philadelphia at New England.

Legal Showdown
PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Opposing attorneys were scheduled to present their final arguments Wednesday in a legal showdown between the National Hockey League and the new World Hockey Association.

X-Country Down to Two

KINGSTON The three-way struggle in the Ulster County Athletic League's cross country standings is down to two.

Marlboro showed Coleman deep into a third place tie with Pine Bush Tuesday, beating the Statesmen, 20-39. The Dukes completed a triangular sweep by checking Rondout Valley, 15-47. Coleman salvaged one by topping the Ganders, 20-37.

Meanwhile, Red Hook maintained its undefeated mark by overcoming the Highlanders, 15-48.

In other UCA action, Ontonagon beat Liberty, 22-37, and in a triangular, Pine Bush beat Ellenville (26-36) and Wallkill (20-40) while the Ellies were beating Wallkill as well (26-29).

The Dukes are now 6-0 on the season, one point behind Marlboro, Coleman and Pine Bush are at five points each.

Marlboro took its triangular by sending home Don Angst and Jim Erceg one-two. Coleman's Tony Manean brook the domination by finishing third, then Duke harrier Ken Hayes took a fourth. Paul Schiller of the Statesmen was fifth, however the Dukes sealed it when Ed Cosman and Dennis Erceg handcuffed the next two spots.

Coleman might have made things closer had not two of its top runners, Jim Rioux and Kevin Post, come up with injuries.

Phil Hand set a course record at Highland to pace Marlboro to another sweep. New Paltz' fine pair of Joe McDermott and Judd Grosshans followed.

Rick Lopez was first for Wallkill, but that was all the Panthers had to cheer about as it was swept by Pine Bush and Ellenville. Tom Savona was the top Bushman runner and Terry Arnold led the Ellies. Norm Vicschwan nosed out Liberty Hershey Bazemore by one second as the Indians evened their record at 3-3.

Defense! . . . Defense! . . . It Pays Off at Rondout

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON 3-0-1 Red Hook and Marlboro, Several times the Ganders were close enough to smell the points, but fate, penalties or the Duke defense intervened.

Once a Rondout lineman was caught without a mouthpiece — that was a 15 yard setback to the Marlboro 23. Another deep penetration became a fourth and 39 situation as red flags blossomed everywhere. Still a third thrust balked when the Dukes got tough after being pushed back 60 yards.

With a rushing attack that averages about 150 yards a game, it's hard to figure out just what is wrong with Rondout, but one thing is for sure — they may be the hardest team in the UCAL to beat.

On defense the Ganders have surrendered a grand total of 256 yards and given up a solitary touchdown in four games. Rondout's defense may just be enough to carry the impotent Ganders along. Only Red Hook's point machine has been as consistently good.

In shutting out New Paltz 14-0, the Raiders brought their total yards over the 1000 mark a pace far ahead of second place ground-gainers, the Onteora Indians. While All-UCAL duo Gary O'Connor and Bill Reid, among others, have rushed for 654 yards, junior signal caller Matt King has clicked on 27 and 47 passing attempts for 470 yards and four touchdowns.

With one exception, Liberty's 26-6 rout of Pine Bush, the games were all close again this time. Ellenville sweated for their one-touchdown victory. Highland managed to hold off charging Onteora and even the Raiders took a full half to solve the Huguenot's defenses. The average margin of victory for UCAL games this season is still holding at seven points.

A few teams did show improvements Monday, factors that won't be overlooked by their next opponents.

In 20 games there have been seven "upsets" and three ties. The UCAL seems determined to stay a balanced league right to the wire.

Oklahoma, Southern Cal, Auburn Saturday Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — You on our bellies and crawl yet," from them," he said. Hearing that Fairbanks was concerned about the Texas defense, Darrell Royal, coach of the Longhorns, quipped: "That's two of us. We're getting the ball moved on us quite a bit. And we're probably playing one of the great offensive lines in the history of college football. I just can't tell you much speed and depth was Mississippi. Now, it's difficult to get the ball away they've got."

Nuff said. Oklahoma, which is a three-week stretch from a loss to Michigan against Nebraska, Notre Dame and Southern Cal, Washington and Colorado, with Oklahoma for 239, bringing the season on and Penn State. Now it's two weeks later, Nebraska, Ohio State, Michigan State at Michigan—next two games against Stanford and Southern Cal will be the Harried side the Huskies' Rose Bowl. Washington still has Sonny Sixkiller, a real Indian, Stanford's Indians are now the Cardinals. Stanford, Missouri at Nebraska—Tigers, California at Southern Cal.

One Pacific 8 Conference team looking ahead to Oklahoma coach, who's Cal's, Stanford, But likely not in Boulder. Bartowski "is in the same night" Colorado, as Jim Plunkett, 22, as a soph. Penn State at Army—John amore, I think he may be a Hainagel because Penn State's ter than Plunkett was. How quarterback two years ago at ever, Bartowski may not ever come and the Nitany Lions start. No matter who starts, it's a great game, but anyone but Southern Cal.

Iowa State at Cal, and Tennessee since. Until now, were ambushed once, that is, Cyclone Special of the and the Cyclones could catch week 11, Army.

New Spacecraft May Aid Science

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The chief planner for the spaceport area is counting on a new breed of satellite to show better than ever before what man and nature are doing to east central Florida.

The spacecraft is the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) launched in July in a pioneering effort to put space technology to use solving problems on Earth.

ERTS carries two sets of cameras and sensors to photograph Earth and to identify and spot variations in surface features such as vegetation, soil and water. All objects transmit or reflect visible and invisible lightwaves in their own special way and ERTS is gathering these "signatures" for later analysis.

From the satellite's images, scientists are beginning to compile a storehouse of information about Earth's resources and surface environment. The objective of the satellite is to prove that automated platforms in space can help man better manage his limited resources and assess the changes taking place in the environment.

John W. Hannah, planning administrator for Brevard County, which houses Cape Kennedy, plans to use the satellite's pictures for land use planning and to improve management of agriculture, forestry and water resources in the 72-mile long oceanfront county.

"One of the first things we want to look at immediately is salt water intrusion in the fresh water St. Johns River," Hannah said in an interview. Some of the county's communities rely on the St. Johns Basin for their water supply and salt water flowing into the river from an artesian well could endanger the resource.

Such salt water intrusion is hard to spot from the ground, but a satellite can view the whole area at once and its pictures will show different color shades of water which might indicate the presence of salt water.

The satellite data will help planners inventory and manage all the county's water resources, their quality and fluctuations. "This will help us structure a program to conserve these resources and use them wisely," Hannah said.

Another major contribution expected from the satellite will be in the field of land use planning. Planners are particularly interested in watching growth related to the development of Disney World in neighboring Orange County.

The butterfly-shaped satellite passes over the area every 18 days in its 570-mile-high orbit, but Hannah has not yet received any pictures because most of the area has been covered by clouds each time the satellite has been overhead. November to February will be the best photographic season.

Clowning Pays for Comedian

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Klein's career has one continuing theme—from "class clown" seated in the back row of the class to comedian standing on center stage, it's been laughter.

"Always clowning, always the clown—that's me," he says. "Comedy is a question of timing," he thinks, perhaps because he's a comedian all the time.

He blames it on the environment although he says he's been laughing since February 8, the day he was born. "I don't think it's in the genes but my parents are pretty funny people."

Currently in his first movie, "Rivals," he plays a "childish man" opposite a precocious 10-year-old "man-child" competing for the affection of actress Joan Hackett, the boy's mother.

"Movies are fascinating," he says. "They're so soft and delicious. On the other hand, they're very manipulative. Sometimes it's terrible feeling like a puppet."

"But if another movie offer comes along, I'd take it tomorrow. I will interrupt my comedy act in order to be a puppet because an actor can come off sweet as sugar in a movie."

Often seen on late-night TV talk-shows—once as host of "The Dick Cavett Show"—he says he owes a lot to TV but that he has turned down summer-replacement host roles for the Dan Martin and Bob Newhart Shows. "I don't like that tuxedo bit and TV is restrictive. Often I put off my career for my own happiness. My work is very integral to my happiness so I have to be true to myself," he explains.

Klein got his acting experience at Yale Drama School and made his professional debut in an off-Broadway production of "Six Characters in Search of an Author." "When I got that offer I said to myself, 'ah, what an opportunity' and it really seasoned me as an actor," he points out.

He has also appeared in several Broadway plays, including "The Apple Tree," "Morning Noon and Night" and "New Faces of 1968."

As a comic he has performed at Greenwich Village's Bitter End and in nightclubs in Chicago and Las Vegas.

He recalls the time he met "Rivals" director, Krishna Shah, an Indian. Klein says he was very sympathetic to him—growing up in all that poverty in India. Then Shah told him that his father was head of Ford Motor Company there.

"I can't even keep an illusion," the comedian remarks. "One 'illusion' that he would like to keep is his bigger-than-life self-image on the screen. "Many actors say they don't care about seeing themselves on screen. Me? I could do it for a week."

The young comic says the kids back home in the Bronx come to see him in a state of shock. "I used to be afraid they'd see me in my leotards and they'd laugh at me."

But then, they've always been laughing anyway, he says.

Dr. Young joined the faculty at New Paltz in the fall of 1963 as an associate professor of political science. He was promoted to associate rank in November 1969.

In January of 1971, he was awarded a grant by the State University of New York Research Foundation for a project on "The Politics of Japanese Budget-Making Process, 1970."

Lunch Time

The management of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated School Lunch Program requires daily attention. Going over details are (seated) Mrs. Anne Nicoletti, bookkeeper and Mrs. Louise Kennedy, school lunch supervisor; (standing) John W. Johnson, director of school lunches and Mrs. Gloria Deyo, secretary. National School Lunch Week is being observed through Oct. 14. Locally the city school program serves more than 5,000 lunches daily from a central kitchen at the J. Watson Bailey, Junior High School. Emphasis throughout the year is on well balanced menus and good eating habits. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Hereford Named Coyote Leads Cattleman a Merry Chase

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (AP) — They called him the "Coyote." He was a young bull, a white-faced Hereford, who had never been caught. He was too cunning for it, too wily.

"He's sharp as a gnat's bristle," said John Regier, a cattleman here in the short-grass country of western Oklahoma. "He's crafty like a Coyote."

But imperatives of the cattle business demanded that he be caught and castrated or disposed of, so as to forestall inbreeding. Furthermore, his wildness was infecting the herd, making it hard to manage.

"Boys, let's bring that dogie in," said C. H. Cornell, 77, old-time rancher and owner of the 1,000-acre spread where the young bull roamed.

It was a three-day job, at times involving eight riders, wearing them down to bone-sore frustration and leaving a string of horses crusted with dry sweat each nightfall.

It also had a somber finish, at least for the young bull, and in a sense, for his pursuers. The chase took on symbolic meanings, pitting human strategies against the native intelligence and instincts of the prey.

"You've got to admire him," a rider said at one point. "It's like Captain Ahab chasing the white whale, Moby Dick, or Hemmingway's old man of the sea after the big fish. He becomes an obsession."

You almost began to feel he deserved to remain free, ought to, that some rare possibility would be gone if he didn't remain free. He was special, more than his kind, a strange seed. But the pursuit went on.

It started one yellow-sky day with another roundup in hopes the young bull could be corralled with the herd. Several previous roundups, for cutting, dehorning, marking and vaccinating, had failed to pen him. But with a big turnout of extra riders, it was worth another try.

As they worked a line of about 100 head toward a lot in a pasture corner, the young bull began edging to the side near the rear. A yell and dash at him put him back with the bunch.

But as the last of the herd was being pushed toward the gate, funneling through it, with the platoon of riders closing in on the stragglers, the bull turned about, facing them, his eyes afire, calculating.

Then he broke, plunging closely between two riders, heedless of their shouts and whips, scorning them. He was away, running. Several horsemen tried to head him but to no avail. He wouldn't be turned. "Get your ropes," Cornell said.

Three did, but by that time, he had disappeared. An afternoon-long search began, through the wooded draws and canyons, across the hills and through the patches of brush and sumack thickets.

Finally, they located him, hidden in a brush-covered creekbed in an east pasture, and flushed him into the open. Two got a throw each at him, but both missed. He headed into a gully, crashed through a barbed-wire fence and vanished into a heavily wooded draw.

They had to circle to a gate to get into the draw and by that time, he was hidden again.

The draw was shaped like the letter "Y" with a dirt road separating the two upper branches. They split into three parties, each searching one neck. The hunt went on until dark without finding him.

But the young bull was in there, all right. Next morning, after a light overnight rain, his tracks showed where he had crossed the dirt road. They tracked him back through the fence and into the pasture where the trail vanished in the grass.

The hunt went on all day, and into the next. But he was masterfully hidden again. The trackers searched from east fence to west fence, from north to south, the windless canyons, the deep side washes, the wooded banks, the brushy old buffalo wallows.

"From somewhere he's probably watching us and figuring us out," Cornell said. "He's got the survival instincts of a wild cat."

Next day, in a far north quarter, Regier spotted some fresh tracks by a corner gate, but they didn't go through it. Not far along a fence, was a knot of trees and brush.

One rider already had scouted that patch twice, riding through it each time, but Regier said the tracks made him suspicious. "I can almost smell him," he said. Regier got off his horse and pressed afoot into the undergrowth.

Moments later, he emerged silently and signalled with an arm for the second man to come. "Bring your rope," he said softly.

Down at the bottom of a dark, foot-cut, just big enough for him to squeeze into and covered overhead with branches, lay the young bull, looking up challengingly. Suddenly he bolted.

The brush tangled the ropes and prevented a throw. The bull headed for a corner gate, burst through it and into the open of a plowed field. "We've got him now," Regier exulted, first throw got him around the neck. Another rope was tossed on his horns.

The bull's legs punched deep into the turned sod, making it difficult for him to run, slowing him, tiring him fast. The men were through the gate and pulling saddles alternately up on him quickly. Regier's first throw got him around the neck. Another rope was tossed on his horns.

They dragged and prodded the bull a mile to the corral, with him fighting it all the way. The ropes on the saddle horns pulling saddles alternately up on the horse's withers or back

Freeman Sponsoring News Program

KINGSTON How has education changed in recent times? One interesting way has been the increasing emphasis placed on the study of current events. To meet the educational needs produced by this growing emphasis, The Daily Freeman is sponsoring a specially-designed, modern News Program for area schools.

In centuries past, those children who went to school in the United States or England received a very different "learning diet" from that given to students now. They often learned a great deal of Latin, Greek, and classical mythology. They were taught little science compared to today's youngsters. And, of course, most never heard of the subject of Current Events.

Today, most American educators agree that it is vital for students to be informed about current happenings in our changing world. They are finding the newspaper an invaluable "textbook."

With this in mind, The Daily Freeman is furnishing the VEC News Program, free of charge, to (selected) schools in this area.

One part of the Program is a weekly filmstrip of news pictures showing important national and world events. The pictures are projected on the classroom screen. The teacher asks questions about news events related to the pictures, thus encouraging student curiosity and interest in current affairs. By creating this interest, the Program leads students to newspaper reading. Along with each News Filmstrip, the teacher receives written guides containing background information and thought-provoking discussion questions. She also receives a Teacher's Guide with vocabulary and map assignments, class projects, homework exercises, and a review quiz. Monthly Study Filmstrips, which explore important current subjects "in depth," are also included in this educational Program. The News Quiz published weekly by The Daily Freeman is another part of the Program. Students and parents can refresh their knowledge of current events by taking the Quiz each week.

The instructional materials in The Daily Freeman's school Program are prepared by Visual Education Consultants, Inc., Madison, Wis. VEC News Services are used in thousands of schools across the nation and in many American schools overseas.

Thousands Attend Saugerties Festival

SAUGERTIES Nearly 3,000 spectators crowded Seamon Park in Saugerties on Sunday, Oct. 8, to view acres of beautiful flowers and listen to popular musical hits by Papa Bear and his famous band. Sunshine was an additional incentive for those attending after Saturday's downpour washed out the first day's event in the Seventh Annual Chrysanthemum Festival.

The outdoor flower shop on Saturday in the Pavilion had to be cancelled due to rain but entrants brought their arrangements to the Saugerties Methodist Church for judging of awards. Sunday morning the beautiful and varied arrangements were transferred to Seamon Park where they remained on display thru Sunday's program.

The Sunday musical was a hit with all attending as Papa Bear and his orchestra delighted all with a mixture of old time favorites and marches. A majority of the pieces presented were requests from the audience. The music of the band drifting thru the beauty of Seamon Park made it a day to be remembered. Festival activities will continue this Saturday and Sunday.

Forecast for THURSDAY, OCT. 12, 1972
GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you try to hold on to a situation that has served its purpose you can have a series of disappointments follow that can confuse and frustrate you. But if you are alive and alert to sudden events and happenings that occur, you find you have a real chance to gain big headway to some new idea or approach to your interests.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do nothing to irritate an associate who is vital to your well-being and be cooperative with one who can help you appreciably in personal life. Choose your words carefully, or you find others misinterpret your meaning.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use good judgment in dealing with one you think a great deal of, but do not rely on your hunches, which are off base. You can handle all those duties very well, if you use those Venus talents wisely. Avoid pitfalls of all kinds.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Witty comments and good humor win others over easily excepting a partner with a dictatorial attitude. Use more diplomacy with this person. Anything of a creative nature is fine to pursue now.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You had better delve right into all that work ahead of you, otherwise you have trouble with higher-ups as well as co-workers. One at home is most appreciative of you now. Use your fine cooperation.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you keep those appointments on time that will help improve your position in business and your personal life. Handle constructive matters instead of going out for fun, which is not favored now. Early to bed tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Solve those problems in the business world and don't waste time alone trying to decide between two avenues in the future. Listen to what a clever business expert has to suggest. Show mate you are devoted in p.m.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Not a good day for socializing, but fine for improving your appearance during spare time. Show more understanding for kin. Working at that hobby you like so much will give you fine results, relaxation.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can encounter real problems if you try to put that plan across today, so you had better set more first. Figure out how to be more cooperative with others in the future. Drive with utmost care if you must go out.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 21 to Dec. 21) Forget that difficulty you are having with some individual and get together with good friends for the fun and relaxation you need. Discuss new ideas that are inspiring to you. Use tact with mate in p.m.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't permit that private anxiety to deter you from being with bigwigs who can open new doors of opportunity for you. Sitting back now will mean that others get the benefits possible instead of you, Act.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Become more alert to what is going on around you and get into the swing of things plan trips, plan to have increased income in the future. Don't waste time or you will regret it later. Dress well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Pressures in the outside world are best reduced by doing what mate suggests and being very agreeable. Your intuitive faculties are working well, so make good use of them. Combine with good judgment.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those straight-shooting young people who will get along well with persons who admire such qualities in your offspring and make big strides forward thereby, but would get nowhere with other kinds of individuals. Slant the education early along lines of work with big government, big business and, preferably in foreign countries. A real go-getter here, whether male or female. Give right ethical training early, though. "The Stars Impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

"Your mother and I have an agreement with teenage baby sitters! We don't baby-sit and they don't apply for Social Security!"

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BRIEFLY: (Q) A friend and I met these guys from Texas and we think we like them an awful lot. They were only here from Tuesday night till Wednesday morning. We can't believe it's love at first sight, because we aren't the kind of girls to go overboard the first time we meet a guy.

It wouldn't be quite so bad if we knew they liked us. It would be different if they were nearer. They both asked us to write them. We are now awaiting an answer from them. In our letters we tried not to show our feelings too much. I know that 15 isn't old. We think you'll probably tell us we are too young to be liking guys that are 17 and 19. That won't make us stop liking them. We do know them in a special way. They both take stands for God, and that's the kind of guys we like.

We know that if it is God's will we may meet them again. The problem is what now. None of the boys around here interest us.—Sherry and Pam in Alabama.

(A) You do not have to do anything at the moment. You are waiting for letters that may not come, or that may not be as exciting as you anticipate if they do come.

Many times teen-agers have experiences such as you have had. A few of the many, many times the experiences prove to be the real thing.

Only time can tell you whether that has happened to one or the other or both of you. Let time do its work. Don't hurry it.

TALK: (Q) This guy used to like me, but at that time he just didn't turn me on. I really like him now, but I saw him with another girl. He was holding her hand.

I really have to talk to him. Would it be stupid to write him a letter, or call him, or stop in where he works? I wouldn't let him know I came by just to see him. I just have to see him somewhere! Help!—Charged in Connecticut.

(A) Your best idea is to stop in where your friend works, if it is in a store or other public place where people come and go to shop or do other business.

Do not try to talk with him at any length while he is at work. If he seems friendly, ask him to call you on the telephone.

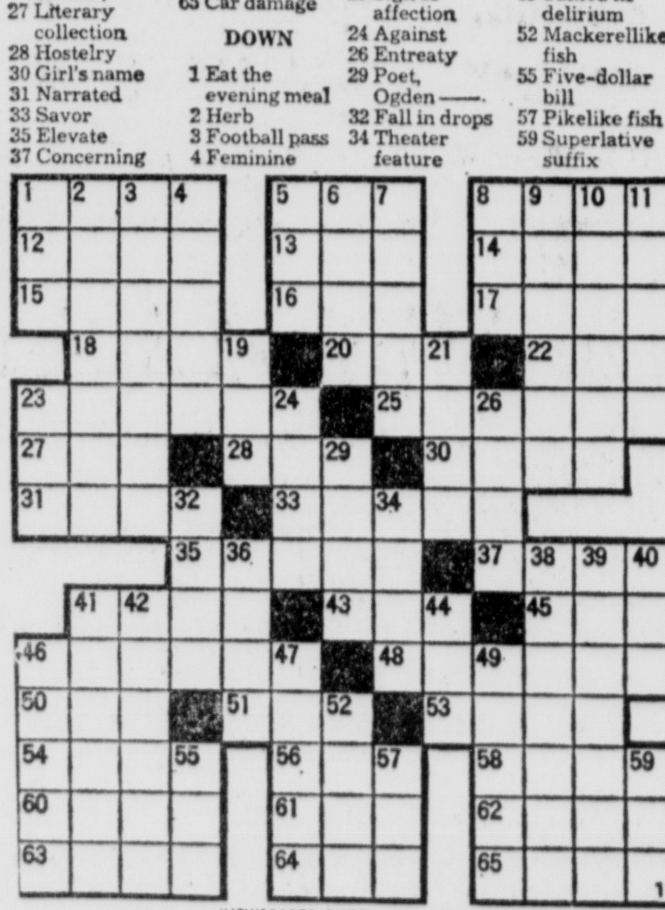

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Elvis Doing TV Special

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvis Presley is doing a global television special in Hawaii on Jan. 14, according to NBC. The network will tape the show for a later broadcast in these United States. Now the real news.

NBC says two-thirds of the 90-minute show will be "transmitted live via satellite" to Asian points that include South Vietnam. It's an intriguing idea, but it may prove a false alarm for Saigon viewers.

It would be a first of sorts for that war-torn country, regardless of whether Elvis appeared or the U.S. military's Armed Forces Vietnam Network (AFVN) or on the government's television stations.

If the latter, it would mark a historic break in the government's usual television fare of Vietnamese soap operas, propaganda skits and occasional speeches by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

But there are two things that probably will prevent Elvis' live debut on anybody's television station in South Vietnam.

Thing number one is Congress. It's watching very carefully this election year how U.S. dollars are spent in Vietnam. It would get very hairy if those dollars were spent building an earthbound facility capable of receiving Elvis Presley transmissions from space. There's a war on, you know.

Thing number two is that a spokesman for the Communications Satellite Corp. says no such earth station ever has been built in South Vietnam. Nor is it likely to be right now.

The cost of the stations range from a minimum of $3.5 million to a maximum of $8 million, he said.

COMSAT doesn't build the stations. When destined for commercial use, they're built by private contractors. Governments and private businesses foot the tab and make the decisions on which transmissions the stations accept.

The COMSAT spokesman said there now are two ways the show could get to South Vietnam: (1) by modifying military satellite receiving stations at much cost and bother, or (2) by taping the satellite transmission in Thailand or Japan and flying the tape to Saigon.

NBC, whose primary interest in the show is how well it does in the United States, referred further questions about live Presley transmissions to RCA Records.

That is the company for which Presley records and whose subsidiary, RCA Record Tours, is producing his Hawaiian show, according to a spokesman for the record company.

Questions about transmissions to South Vietnam caused some confusion there, but after several tries there was an answer: "Nothing has been done in terms of the South Vietnamese telecast by satellite."

"In other words, nothing has been finalized."

Antibusing Bill . . . Weekend Death Looms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With President Nixon throwing his full support behind the effort, a Southern-led coalition tries again today to break a Senate filibuster threatening to kill a bill that would curb busing of school children for racial balance.

It seemed certain that not even Nixon's last minute intervention would change the mind of the Senate, which bowed to the will of a minority of Northern liberals Tuesday and refused to impose its gag rule to let the controversial measure come to a vote.

The second vote on a motion to invoke cloture, or shut off debate, was expected later today. A third was set for Thursday if necessary.

Unless backers of the tough

House passed antibusing bill win on cloture, the bill is sure to die this weekend, when Congress is scheduled to quit for the year.

"I don't think we have the votes for cloture today," a glum Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., a leader of the antibusing bloc, said. "It would be unrealistic to say it would be anything but a long shot. It's a real uphill situation."

Northern liberals, wielding the filibuster tactic used successfully by Southerners in years past to block civil rights legislation, are trying to talk the bill to death. They contend the measure—which would virtually halt all long-distance busing of students as a tool for school desegregation—would rekindle racial strife and wipe out the integration gains of the last 20 years.

Southern senators, with some allies from Northern and border states like Griffin, had a 45-37 majority on Tuesday's cloture vote—but they were 10 votes shy of the two-thirds margin required.

Following that vote, Nixon summoned Griffin and other leaders of the antibusing forces to the White House for a strategy session. They emerged to say the President was dispatching top lieutenants to Capitol Hill to try to change some minds.

"I am against busing, period," Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., quoted Nixon as saying.

Though Nixon was known to prefer his own proposals to curb busing, keyed to a moratorium on court orders, those at the White House meeting said he recognizes the only chance to get any bill this year is for the Senate to accept the pending House measure without change.

It would permit busing for the purpose of desegregation only as a last resort, and then no farther than the school second nearest to a student's home. It would also permit reopening of desegregation cases settled by court orders in the past.

CHAIRMAN CALLS HEARING—House Banking Committee chairman Wright Patman has called a hearing on the Watergate bugging affair and said he invited four top GOP leaders and White House aides to appear. Invited were Maurice Stans, finance chairman of President Nixon's reelection committee; John Mitchell, former chairman of the committee; Clark MacGregor, present chairman of the committee, and John Dean of the White House staff who conducted an investigation of the affair. Abort Law Challenges On Court Calendar

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court turned its attention today to challenges of state abortion laws of Texas and Georgia.

Arguments were scheduled today on these state laws:

—A Texas statute which makes abortion a crime unless it is necessary to save a mother's life. A three-judge federal panel in Dallas ruled in June, 1970, that the statute is unconstitutional but did not bar its enforcement. A Dallas group has brought a challenge, arguing that a Texas district attorney is continuing to enforce the law.

—A Georgia law which allows abortion for some reasons such as rape or the possibility of a physical or mental defect in the child. The statute is being challenged by a group including pregnant women, both single and married; physicians, registered nurses, ministers and social workers.

Tuesday the court accepted only 16 appeals for review later in the term, throwing back scores of others to the lower courts.

Reapportionment plans for the Texas and Connecticut legislatures will be examined sometime in the New Year, as well as a claim by some black school children that Mississippi is unconstitutionally supplying textbooks to private white academies to avoid integration.

The court also agreed to rule on whether the Defense Department can continue to deny full housing and medical benefits to a female member of the armed forces who partially supports her husband when it pays full benefits to military men regardless of their wives' dependency status.

Other women appellants fared less well. The court refused to consider the appeal of a Mississippi woman who claims she was unfairly convicted of murder by a jury from which women were excluded. And it rejected the case of a former woman officer in the Salvation Army who said she got less pay than male officers.

One of the lawyers, Tennessee Assistant Attorney General Alex B. Shipley, said in Nashville Tuesday that the Post had correctly quoted him. Shipley said Donald H. Segretti, a Treasury Department lawyer then, asked him in June, 1971 to spy on Democratic presidential contenders. But Shipley said he had "no personal knowledge" that Segretti was working for Nixon or if Segretti ever implemented his plans.

The White House denied the Post report.

Cite Reports on GOP Campaign Activities Dems Step Up Inquiry Demands

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democrats are stepping up demands for an inquiry into President Nixon's reelection campaign in the wake of reports that Republicans have secretly tried to disrupt the campaigns of Democratic presidential candidates since mid-1971.

Frank Mankiewicz, political director for Sen. George McGovern who eventually outlasted 11 candidates for the Democratic nomination, Tuesday night listed 10 separate acts of alleged sabotage that he said "must have come from the Republicans."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said an alleged GOP subterfuge against his campaign two weeks before the New Hampshire primary was, if true, "not a prank. This is a violation of law." He said Nixon should respond directly to the charges.

And House Banking chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., renewed attempts to subpoena officials of Nixon's campaign committee to answer questions about the alleged political espionage.

Tuesday's actions followed a report in the Washington Post that Republicans since mid-1971 had been following Democratic candidates and taking actions to sabotage their campaigns. The Post listed as sources FBI and Justice Department files and four lawyers who were invited, but refused to take part in the alleged plots.

One of the lawyers, Tennessee Assistant Attorney General Alex B. Shipley, said in Nashville Tuesday that the Post had correctly quoted him. Shipley said Donald H. Segretti, a Treasury Department lawyer then, asked him in June, 1971 to spy on Democratic presidential contenders. But Shipley said he had "no personal knowledge" that Segretti was working for Nixon or if Segretti ever implemented his plans.

The White House denied the Post report.

The Post said the FBI and Justice files were compiled during the investigation of the alleged burglarizing and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

Pair of Missing Hands

BELFAST (UPI)—Fire had charred all three bodies black by the time troops got to them. But the tipoff was there and practiced eyes spotted it: One pair of hands was missing.

British army sources said today that was sure indication the explosion and fire which swept through five Belfast houses Tuesday night and killed three youths destroyed a Provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA) bomb factory.

The three deaths pushed to 600 Northern Ireland's three-year toll of violent deaths.

"One of the first things you learn to look for is the hands," an army source said. "If the hands are missing you can be sure you're looking at a case early. One of these bodies didn't have its hands."

The explosion and fire destroyed five houses on Balkan Street in the heart of the Roman Catholic Lower Falls area.

Five men, one of whom was a security adviser, other a Nixon campaign committee aide and another a Nixon campaign committee aide, were arrested inside the Democratic headquarters shortly after midnight June 17. Two other men, one of whom was a White House aide and another a Nixon campaign committee aide, were indicted as co-defendants. They resigned before the indictments in August.

Patman Tuesday invited officials of the Nixon campaign to appear before the Banking Committee Thursday, but committee member Ben Blackburn, R-Ga., said "it would be absolutely crazy for any of these witnesses to appear."

Muskie said a White House aide allegedly forged a name on a letter and sent it to the Manchester, N.H., Union Leader claiming that Muskie condemned a derogatory word, "Canuck," in reference to Americans of French-Canadian ancestry. Muskie said the front-page letter hurt his campaign, noting that he carried Manchester by only two percentage points but beat McGovern in the rest of the state by a wide margin.

In other violence, gunmen shot an East Belfast resident on his doorstep when he answered their knock. Police said he was in serious condition at Royal Victoria Hospital.

Bombs wrecked a hotel outside Armagh, 40 miles southwest of Belfast, and an
